IKE DECLINES TO COMMENT ON STASSEN Farlton Woman Dies In 2-Car Crash

Lady Motorist, One Of Injured, Facing Charge

Mrs. Amos Foust
Victim Of Collision
East On Route 56

At least one charge faces the woman driver of a car which struck a second auto head-on two miles east of here on Route 56 Monday afternoon, resulting in the death of a passenger in the second car.

Mrs. Henry Winland, 24, of Perry Township, Hocking County, just over the Pickaway County line on Laurelville Route 56, will probably be charged with driving left of center, according to Deputy Sheriff Radcliff. He said he had not yet conferred with County Prosecutor William Ammer on any additional accusations.

Victim of the accident just west of Huber-Hiller Rd. was Mrs. Amos Foust, 53, of Farlton. Though she apparently died instantly, she was officially pronounced dead on arrival at Berger Hospital. Death was attributed to head, neck and chest injuries.

Mrs. Foust was a passenger in a car driven by 16-year old Gary Ray Allen of Laurelville, Allen, Robert Lee Willey, 13, of Farlton, another passenger in the Allen car, Mrs. Winland and Benny O'Hara, 16, of Laurelville Route 1, her brother, were all injured.

MRS. WINLAND is still in Berger Hospital with head and chest injuries and shock. The others were treated for lacerations and bruises and released.

According to Deputy Radcliff, Mrs. Winland's car was traveling towards Circleville when it approached a rural mail truck. Either Mrs. Winland attempted to pass the truck or her car skidded on the rain-soaked highway, the deputy said, and it swerved into the path of the Allen car coming from the opposite direction.

Both cars went into a ditch, but neither overturned. Mrs. Foust was found inside the car, having apparently struck her head against the dashboard.

She became Pickaway County's 11th traffic fatality of the year. It was the eighth traffic death in the past two months. At this time last year, the fatal toll in the county stood at 13.

Mrs. Foust was born in Wellston on February 9, 1903, a daughter of Jonas and Olive Bethel Rathburn. On December 21, 1921, she was married to Amos Foust.

IN ADDITION to her husband, survivors include: five brothers, Paul Rathburn of the armed forces, Forrest, Cecil and James, all of Columbus and Francis of Round, and one sister, Mrs. Alma Hurst of Athens.

Mrs. Foust was a member of the Farlton Methodist Church and of the Royal Neighbors.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 1:30 p. m. in the Farlton Methodist Church under the direction of the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home, with the Rev. Earl Cowen officiating. Burial will be in the Farlton Cemetery.

Friends may call at the residence in Farlton Tuesday and Wednesday.

Nasser Lashes U.S. Attitude

Egyptian Economy
Said To Be 'Sound'

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser declared today Egypt's economy is sound and sharply criticized the United States for withdrawal of its offer to help finance the Aswan high dam on the Nile.

"We Egyptians will not permit any imperialist or oppressor to rule us militarily, politically, or economically," he said. "We will not submit to the dollar or to force."

At the same time Soviet Ambassador E. D. Kisselev said the Soviet Union is ready to finance the dam "if Egypt asks for it" and declared Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri T. Shepilov had made this clear.

"That's what Mr. Shepilov said and I am only stressing his statement," Kisselev reported in a Cairo suburb at Nasser's inauguration of an oil refinery and an 81-mile pipeline from Suez.

Nasser did not touch on prospects for Soviet aid in his 20-minute speech, but said "if an uproar in Washington creates false and misleading announcements that Egypt's economy is unsound, I say to those behind the uproar: 'May your hate choke you to death.'"

NASSER'S SPEECH marked the first public attack on the United States by an Egyptian government leader since he masterminded the army revolt which deposed King Farouk four years ago. He did not mention Britain, which also has withdrawn an offer of aid.

The U. S. State Department said in announcing the withdrawal decision Friday that developments in the last seven months had rendered uncertain Egypt's ability to carry her share of the financial burden of the $1.3 billion Aswan project, intended to widen the irrigated area of the Nile Valley and provide further power for Egypt's industries.

"If this is killing plant life, it is also detrimental to public health and we ought to act immediately," said Councilman Gerald Severino, who joined with Councilman David De Luca in demanding action.

A report from Dr. H. C. Young, associate chairman of the Ohio State Experiment Station at Wooster, said apple and quince leaves sent to him for examination were "injured by some chemical in the form of smog or gas."

Optimism Dims In Efforts To End Phone Row

Union Official Says
Gap Grows Between Company And CWA

Optimism was thin today in the 10-day old strike of 600 operators and service workers of the Consolidated Telephone Company.

Although there was no official backing for reports that negotiations had been suspended at Portsmouth, a union spokesman said opposing sides in the talks seem "farther apart than before" in their efforts to reach a settlement. Union sources in Circleville confirmed they had heard of the unfavorable turn in the Portsmouth talks, but added they had no reason to believe that negotiations were broken off.

The reports of a growing gap between the union and management came from Portsmouth.

Frank Thernes, District 4 representative of the Communication Workers of America, gave that estimate at the conclusion of a negotiating session here Monday night. Earlier he had said progress was being made toward an agreement on a new one year contract between the company and the CWA.

These were reported as principal issues blocking agreement: 1. The company's insistence on a no-strike clause and abolishment of the union shop.

2. Reclassification as managers of certain personnel now in the union.

Present wage scales at Consolidated run from $1.08 an hour for a beginning lineman to $2.34 an hour for experienced personnel.

The latest union statement, stressing the desire to "keep things as they were" and emphasizing again that wage scales are not yet an issue, apparently was intended in large part to clarify a widespread confusion over the dispute that touched off the walkout.

The Herald, early in the dispute, learned from both sides that the discussion had not yet reached the question of wages, and that the issues so far are centered on working conditions. For several days, however, rumors were circulated to the effect that the dispute started over wages.

A union spokesman said the union is trying to preserve conditions listed in the old contract. Wage scales have not been discussed.

The strike began July 15 when the old one-year contract expired. About half the telephones in the parts of 24 southern Ohio counties served by the company are dial operated. Supervisors are handling emergency calls in the manually operated exchanges.

Ohio Returns Part Of Polio Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service says that 17 states, including Ohio, have turned back part of previously allocated supplies of Salk polio vaccine.

In addition, seven of the 17 waived their right to share in a new release today of 3,137,922 doses. The service said this enabled "states where demand is still high to receive larger amounts." The health service have been urging maximum use of the vaccine as it becomes available.

However, a total of 2,431,035 doses previously allocated to Ohio was turned back unused.

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators today criticized as too uncontrolled and possibly dangerous the present government practice of hiring outside consultants. A Government Operations subcommittee hit particularly at the federal hiring of newsmen, suggesting this creates "governmental influence" over journalism.

It also alleged there is "lobbying" within the government by consultants, and said there is evidence specialists have been employed for political reasons.

3,000 Slogans Eyed In GOP Contest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Aides to Rep. Oliver P. Bolton (R-Ohio) reported in some amazement today he has received about 3,000 suggestions for a 1956 GOP campaign slogan.

They were submitted in response to an appeal by Bolton just last week.

The Ohio congressman, expressing dissatisfaction with current GOP phrases, offered a $25 savings bond to the winner, still to be picked.

Some of the suggested slogans emphasize candidates. For example:

"All in favor say Ike."
"Keep that Eisenhower look—a fat pocketbook."

"Peace and power with Eisenhower."
"Eisenhower, man of the hour."

"Better an ill President than an ill country."
"Ike and Dick are sure to click."

Other Republicans like the "peace and prosperity" theme, with such variations as:

"From gloom to boom."
"Grin and share it party."

"A chicken on every corner."
"We will not lower the boom."

"Well heeled? You ought to know!"
Just what Bolton will do with the winning slogan hasn't been decided upon, but the GOP National Committee has expressed interest.

"Actually," said a committee spokesman, "we think now we'll go right down to the wire with 'peace, prosperity and progress' but we haven't closed our minds."

The enthusiasm for slogans isn't nearly so strong at the Democratic National Committee.

"We don't use slogans," said a woman official there. "They sound too much like huckstering."

Ohio Safety Parley Opens

Governor's Group
Studies New Curbs

COLUMBUS (AP) — Safety-conscious Ohioans today answered Gov. Frank J. Lausche's call for further efforts to curb traffic accidents.

The governor outlined his "life-saving" views for some 200 Ohio delegates who attended a recent meeting of the President's Committee for Traffic Safety Midwestern Regional Conference.

The delegation, second in size only to that from Illinois, included members of the Ohio Governor's Committee on Traffic Safety.

Members have urged preparation of a "package" safety program for action by the next Legislature.

Lausche said today's meeting would promote discussion of the advisability for Ohio of:

A merit system regulating automatically the suspension of a motorist's license upon accumulation of a definite number of demerits for traffic violations.

A compulsory automobile inspection system conducted by a governmental agency.

LICENSING of schools and instructors teaching drivers.

Enlarging the State Highway Patrol because of the newly instituted 40-hour work week for personnel.

Expanding safety educational programs.

Director U. C. Felty of the State Highway Safety Department introduced the governor and Jesse T. Smith presided over the meeting.

Smith, president of the Yellow Cab Co., Cleveland, is chairman of the governor's safety committee.

Felty said that through efforts of the governor's group, local safety organizations have been formed in 75 of Ohio's 88 counties. He expressed the hope that safety committees will be created soon in remaining counties.

Ohio Solon Seeks Aid For U. S. GI

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bow (R-Ohio) is asking for assurance that all possible assistance is being given U. S. Airman 2c James C. Jordan of Newark, N. J., who was sentenced to death by a court of Leeds, England, for a fatal stabbing in a cafe brawl.

The congressman has been a frequent critic of the Status of Forces Treaty giving allied nations jurisdiction over offenses committed by off duty U. S. servicemen stationed abroad.

Polio Total Down

COLUMBUS (AP) — The state health department reports 16 new cases of polio in Ohio in the week ended July 21, bringing the number of new cases this year to 77. At the same time last year, the total was 219.

WAITING for the end of the steel strike, steelworker Bob Derell (left), of Peoria, Ill., helps Raymond Day (center) and Arnold Day load bales of straw from a wheat field near Callao, Mo. 8 Marine Recruits Admit Being 'Goof Offs' In Camp

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Eight survivors of Platoon 71's death march have testified they were "goof offs" and Sgt. Matthew C. McKoon was a Marine they admired.

Two of McKoon's former boots said too that even though the sergeant had struck them, it was more in exasperation than in anger because he wanted to make them "gung ho" Marines.

In all this testimony, there was no trace of bitterness against the pale, impassive former drill instructor from Worcester, Mass.

The 31-year-old McKoon, who once had a reputation as a laughing, happy man, led 74 members of Platoon 71, then beginning their sixth week of training, into a marsh near the rifle range of this sprawling training center on the night of April 8 "to teach them discipline."

At first, so the testimony ran, the recruits treated the march as a lark. Then there was a cry for "help," followed by panic and death. Six drowned.

McKoon is charged with involuntary manslaughter, oppression of recruits and drinking on duty.

The prosecution witnesses all said they thought discipline in the platoon had been poor. It was this that made McKoon want to weld them into "gung ho" outfits.

"Gung ho" is a strictly Marine expression. It means to Marines "All for one and one for all."

With obvious reluctance and only under prodding did Pfc. Charles Langone Jr., 20, of New Hyde Park, N.Y., a recruit platoon section leader, tell of the "little argument" he had with McKoon.

While the platoon was on the rifle range, Langone said, it had been ordered to forego second servings at meals.

On the fatal day, Langone said McKoon caught him trying to get seconds and asked "Hungry?" Langone said he snapped: "What do you have to do around here to be hungry?"

Subsequently, Langone explained, he and McKoon sat down and discussed the discipline in the platoon.

Defense attorney Emile Zola Berman asked, "Didn't he tell you that . . . a Marine who got into combat, who wasn't disciplined, who didn't respond to orders, could be shipped home in a pine box?" Langone answered, "Yes, sir."

Pan-Am Parley Value Assessed

Personal Contact
Said Major Result

PANAMA (AP) — Establishment of closer personal relationships for an approach to Western Hemisphere problems was seen today as a major result of the Panama meeting of American presidents.

President Eisenhower left last night for Washington after a busy extra day of conferences with 11 presidents or presidents-elect of American republics. He met earlier with the other chief executives here for sessions commemorating the beginning of Pan-American relations 130 years ago.

Stressed by Eisenhower in his conference proposal was improvement of "human welfare" in the American republics.

One U. S. source said Eisenhower's plan envisaged a cooperative partnership arrangement to meet hemisphere problems. The United States now is working with Latin-American nations on a bilateral basis.

The source said Eisenhower's call for a commission to study economic, financial, social and technical problems of the Americas was in line with his partnership plan.

DIPLOMATIC quarters said the other heads of state had indicated their support for establishment of such a commission. Eisenhower said he would appoint his brother Milton to the body. A U. S. source said the commission probably would be formed within four or five weeks.

Although the group would have power only to make suggestions, the American source interpreted it as a step toward a partnership arrangement.

Eisenhower said one goal of the commission could be the application of atomic energy to industry and to fight disease.

With all nations working together, the U. S. source said, the new plan should not require any large increase in U. S. expenditures.

Tree Cutter Crushed By Two-Ton Limb
A Mt. Sterling tree cutter was killed today when a two-ton limb he had been sawing fell off and crushed him to death. The accident occurred on a farm 1 1/4 miles northwest of Darbydale.

Frederick C. Morrison, 58, owner of the Morrison Tree Service, was dead by the time two co-workers reached him, according to the Madison County sheriff's department. Morrison's helpers reported that the 18-inch limb, 40 feet long, rolled against him as he completed the cut from an elm.

The limb knocked Morrison 20 feet to the ground and then struck him in the middle of the back, he added. Scene of the accident was on the Harrison Lukens farm.

Morrison was a bachelor. Funeral arrangements are being completed by the John Junk Funeral Home of Mt. Sterling.

Ike's Brother Gets New Post
BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, youngest brother to the President and one of his closest advisers, has been elected president of Johns Hopkins University.

The 56-year-old educator, diplomat and expert in many phases of governmental operations accepted the post in a telephone conversation from Panama, where he was attending a Pan-American meeting with his brother.

Nixon Given Warm Nod By Nation's Chief

Disarmament Aide
Riles GOP By Backing
Herter For Veep

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower flew in from Panama today with a warm greeting for Vice President Nixon and the briefest of handshakes for Harold Stassen, his disarmament aide who announced a move yesterday to push Nixon off the Republican ticket.

The President had no comment on the controversy, even before this tableau at the airport, Nixon's renomination had appeared to be nearly cemented.

Nixon was the first to greet Eisenhower as the smiling President stepped down from his private plane, Columbine III, at National Airport.

Twenty feet down a receiving line which included diplomats, Republican Congress members and government officials, Stassen was waiting with a broad smile.

Eisenhower shook hands with everybody and Stassen remarked as he put out his hand, "Good morning. Congratulations on a great job down there."

In the background rose a chant of "We like Ike" from a group of young Republicans.

STASSEN HAD told a news conference yesterday that "in loyalty to President Eisenhower" he would work to replace Nixon on the GOP ticket with Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts.

Stassen said private polls had shown that an Eisenhower-Herter ticket would be 6 per cent stronger than an Eisenhower-Nixon combination. The added strength, he said, might mean the difference between Republican and Democratic control of Congress.

Eisenhower chatted momentarily with Nixon before the trip to the White House.

Stassen stressed that he did not make his supplant - Nixon move as a member of the President's official family, but as a private citizen. He said he still considers himself a member of that family.

Nixon, interviewed separately, renewed his statement of last night that he stands on his announcement that he is available for a second term bid but that the matter is one for Eisenhower and the GOP convention.

Stassen caught his fellow Republicans by surprise with his Herter-instead-of - Nixon proposal. The White House quickly disavowed the idea with a statement that cast some doubt on Stassen's continuing in his Cabinet-rank post. Many Republicans regarded Stassen's attempted bombshell as a dud, and quickly predicted Nixon would be renominated despite the move against him.

But Stassen said he had expected the "flurry of criticism" which greeted his move, claimed support for it from a group of "Republican leaders" whom he declined to identify, and said he did not plan to resign his White House post.

He said he had informed both (Continued on Page Two)

DROODLES
By ROGER PRICE

"CENTIPEDE IN A HAMMOCK"
This Droodle is a dandy one to use at a Party when everyone is ignoring you. All you have to do is draw it on an old five dollar bill and pass it around among the guests. Before you know it everyone will be clamoring for a copy and you'll be a huge success. At least until you run out of five-dollar bills. But then you can make a comeback by using these extra titles which I had left over from a party I was thrown out of last week. You can point out that this Droodle might also be called: "A Slice of Grapefruit Practicing Squirts" or perhaps "A Porcupine with a Wrap-Around Windshield." Or if you turn it upside down it could be: "A Crew Cut and Beany Who Can't Get Ahead."

Chief Justice Guest Speaker At Kiwanis Meet

Hon. Carl V. Weygandt, chief justice of the Supreme Court of Ohio, was guest speaker last night at the local Kiwanis Club meeting, held in the Mecca Restaurant.

Local guests present at the meeting included the following members of the Pickaway County judiciary: William D. Radcliff, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, Sterling M. Lamb, Judge of the Circleville Municipal Court, and Guy G. Cline, probate judge.

Judge Weygandt spoke on "Mysteries of the Judiciary." His discussion, in non-technical terms, described various procedures of the state government. Theme for the chief justice's talk was that "organized government can have no greater responsibility than the administration of even-handed justice to our people."

Gerald Staley, lieutenant-governor of the eighth division of the Ohio Kiwanis, was also a guest of the local club.

Ten members from the West Franklin County Kiwanis Club attended the session for an inter-club meeting.

Revised Offer Hinted Readied In Steel Strike

Company Chiefs Meet Prior To Negotiation Parley With Union

NEW YORK (AP) — Representatives of the nation's major steel companies met behind closed doors today, apparently to work over a new offer aimed at ending the 24-day-old steel strike. They will meet later with negotiators for the United Steelworkers of America.

Both sides have declined to say anything about the reported new offer. There was speculation it would call for a three-year contract in contrast to industry's original demand for a five-year one, and one or two cents more than offered previously in hourly benefits.

John A. Stephens, industry's top negotiator, met with his management group at the Biltmore Hotel during the morning while David J. McDonald, union president, met secretly with union representatives at Hampshire House.

"Please God, that this visit to New York will be more fruitful than the last," he said.

Earlier contract talks here ended in a stalemate that signaled a walkout of 650,000 steelworkers. Nearly 90 per cent of the national steel capacity has been idled by the strike and about 103,000 workers in allied industries have been laid off.

THE NEW discussions were called Sunday by the industry's top negotiator, John A. Stephens of U. S. Steel, Talks in Pittsburgh had collapsed last week.

There was speculation that the companies might be prepared either to revise their basic proposals or to modify them within the framework of the long-term pact they say is necessary for industry stability.

The companies have offered a contract lasting four years and four months with what they say is a package wage boost amounting to 17 2/3 cents in the first year. The union estimated the offer at 14 cents an hour and said it was too little. The union also favors a two-year contract.

The steelworkers' prestrike wages averaged $2.46 an hour. The union has never made public its wage demands but is reportedly seeking an increase of 15 cents an hour.

Strike effects — Nearly 90 per cent of national steel capacity idled, 650,000 USW members on strike, approximately 103,000 other workers already furloughed in allied industries, principally transportation and mines; effects spreading to more industries as stockpiles of steel are depleted; Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) calls for settlement before U. S. economy is "strangled" and "whole free world" endangered.

Federal action—Mediation service on sidelines as parties resume talks under own power; administration closely watching negotiation progress, has acted to conserve available special steel for defense needs.

4 Motorists Fined For Passing Light

Four motorists were arrested for passing a red light and all signed waivers for $5 and costs, according to the city court report today. These included:

Ray E. Collins, 26, of Portsmouth and Paul Leroy Giffen, 22, of Williamsport, both arrested by Officer John Lockard; Clyde F. Davis, 69, of Circleville Route 1, arrested by Officer Bob Temple; and James Fraley Jr., 26, of Flint, Mich., arrested by Officer Rod List.

Living Cost Hits Record High In June

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of living reached an all-time high in June, the government reports.

The Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics said consumer prices in American cities rose seven-tenths of 1 per cent above the May level.

The index for June stood at 116.2 per cent of the 1947-49 average, 1.6 per cent above the level a year earlier. More than 100,000 General Electric Co. employees will receive a wage increase averaging more than two cents an hour as a result of the increase in the index.

James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, said the boost will add $80,000 weekly to pay envelopes.

Under an agreement signed in August last year the employees received a raise of a half-cent for each one-half of 1 per cent that the cost of living index rises over a base figure of 114.9.

The bureau said an average increase of 2 per cent in food prices, partly seasonal, was primarily responsible for the general rise.

Pilot Flies Low, Drops Keys In Yard

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Administration started an inquiry after receiving a complaint of old single engine plane flew too low over suburban Glendale.

Investigators traced the plane to Donald T. Smith, a crop dusting pilot, and got this explanation: "I took off in the plane and then discovered I had the car keys in my pocket, so I flew low over my family's place and dropped the keys into the yard."

Family Of Four Hurt In Mishap Along Route 22

2 Priest Brothers, Their Mother, Sister All Receive Injuries

Two Catholic priest brothers, along with their sister and mother, were injured Monday when their car went out of control on a Route 22 curve near the Pickaway County home. The machine overturned in a culvert.

The Rev. Fr. Frederick Loeper, 27, of Coaldale, Pa., suffered a fractured right collarbone, possible rib fractures on his right side and possible fractured finger. He was first taken to Berger Hospital, as were the others, but was later transferred to Mt. Carmel Hospital in Columbus.

Fr. Richard J. Loeper, 28, of Bethlehem, Pa., his brother, received lacerations of his forehead and hands. He was treated at Berger Hospital and released.

Miss Bernadette Loeper, 24, of Reading, Pa., driver of the car, suffered bruises and lacerations of her chest, back and thigh. She was also treated here and released.

MRS. MARY LOEPER, 64, suffered injuries to her left shoulder and arm and to her chest. She also was transferred to Mt. Carmel Hospital.

The Loepers were westbound on Route 22, traveling on vacation to New Mexico, according to the sheriff's office here. As their car rounded the curve, the car struck the right berm and the air in one of the tires apparently was released.

The car then swerved across the highway and rolled over into a culvert on the opposite side of the road. Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said the car was completely demolished.

Today's World News In Brief

Alcatraz Foils Another Escapee

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Another attempt to escape from grim Alcatraz prison ended early today like the others—in failure—when murderer Floyd Wilson was found crouched behind a rock barely 150 yards from the spot where he disappeared.

Wilson, serving a life term on the famed Rock, surrendered meekly 11 1/2 hours after he slipped away while working on the prison dock.

His capture ended an intensive foot-by-foot search by FBI agents and prison guards of the small island in San Francisco Bay. Federal officials have called it escape-proof ever since the prison was set up 22 years ago.

Associate Warden J. B. Latimer said Wilson was found near the water's edge on the east end of the island.

Wilson, sent to Alcatraz in 1952 for the murder of a Washington, D. C. grocer, probably will be placed in isolation pending filing of escape charges.

The prisoner was captured as Coast Guard patrol boats circled the island, located about a mile offshore, playing searchlights on both the shore and the water.

CHICAGO — Cornelius Koster, who has been lying face down for nearly 14 years, hasn't much to look forward to.

He remarked today to Fred Hertwig, warden of the Cook County Hospital, "Life is mostly a lot of little things; and little things are big things to me."

Koster, whose back was splintered in an auto crash Nov. 18, 1942, will celebrate his 37th birthday in the hospital Aug. 2. Friends are planning a little party on his birthday, which may be a big thing after all.

Stronger Leaf Tobacco Seen In Demand Now

Boom In Filter Brands Brings Call For Heavy Texture In 'Weed'

By SAM DAWSON

RICHMOND (AP)—The cigarette makers have rolled with the punches in the last year or so with fair success. Now the tobacco farmer may face some new problems of his own as a result.

His crop prospects look reasonably good. But some new notes have crept into the chant of the tobacco auctioneer. Thank filter tipped cigarettes and the move to cut manufacturing costs by using parts of the leaf once discarded.

These developments could affect both prices and quantity of purchases this year. And the appearance of foreign competition in world markets adds still another uncertainty.

Tobacco men here say that the new crop, with picking now starting in some sections, has been helped greatly by well timed rains in contrast to the droughts that plagued large sections in the last two or three years.

Manufacturers are happier, too, since sales have rebounded from the bad dip that followed health scare talk. For the nation, cigarette production in the first four months of this year was six per cent ahead of the previous year. The outlook for the rest of the year is good, producers add.

In dealing with the talk about a possible link of lung cancer with smoking—about which there is still a very wide difference of opinion—the cigarette makers have profited from the big shift to filter tipped smokes which helped them recapture temporarily lost sales.

But keen rivalry between brands has led the tobacco companies to new production devices. Some smokers complained that the smoke lost much of its strength, as well as its tars, in passing through filters. Tobacco men say that this has led to experimenting with heavier bodied tobaccos—letting more strength get through.

Farmers who have heavier bodied—and formerly lower priced varieties of tobacco—stand to gain by the higher demand this year for the leaves they grow. But before the filter tipped cigarette made its great gains, some tobacco companies were emphasizing mildness and advising farmers to plant prime quality tobacco, then commanding higher prices.

These farmers complain that this year when their crop comes to market they may find lessened demand for the quality leaf than they had anticipated, while their neighbor down the road who stayed with the stronger variety may see his once low or medium priced leaf climb up the value scale. Some manufacturers reply there will be room for both in meeting consumer tastes.

Anthropobia is the fear of society.

HEAT WAVES

IT MAY BE true, as Grandfather claims, that August is "tired Summer," but there is strength enough left in the eighth month to send a blistering heat wave. Men who grow corn commercially, or the family gardener who is proud of his patch of sweet corn, do not object too strenuously. They know it takes hot days and warm nights to push maize to maturity. It isn't true that August is necessarily hotter than July.

Nowadays there is warning when a heat wave is due, thanks to the weather prophets whose voices come over the air waves. Of course, the weather man makes mistakes, and many mortals take human satisfaction in the errors of scientific weather prognosticators. The fact that the weather boys always have good alibis involving erratic air pressures and currents does not decrease a man's gloating.

The heat wave crawls across fields and meadows; it infiltrates woodlands and valleys. The temperature inches up toward the 100 mark. Air movement dies away. Sultriness hangs over the countryside. Corn leaves curl in the bright sun and the soil in the garden cakes and splits. Tomatoes hang listlessly and the grasses on the uplands turn to amber and gold.

Noises die away as the heat wave presses its hot, soft hand on the landscape. An occasional call comes from the woods where a young crow is trying its voice; a Jackadassical cricket fiddles occasionally beneath the farm kitchen window; a grasshopper takes off on a short, staccato flight. But the heat wave rolls over the land and all Nature grows quiet.

Perhaps for hours, perhaps for days, the searing temperature presses against the countryside. The heat will pass; it is part of Nature's plan. But while a man pokes along trying to get something done and while he knows that heat waves are a part of Summer, he thinks longingly of the weeks ahead when a cool, brisk breeze will blow in and heat waves will be past for another year.

ANOTHER SCHOOL BILL

FOLLOWING defeat of the bill for federal aid to school construction, the House of Representatives quickly passed a measure of aid to schools in communities crowded by military and other federal installations.

Grants up to $378 million will be authorized should the bill complete its way through Congress and be signed by the President. Of this $146 million is for construction and $232 million for operation and maintenance over a two-year period ending July 1, 1958.

The assertion still is true that where the federal government crowds a community's facilities through installations, that community is more entitled to assistance out of the tax board the government collects from all citizens than communities which have no national defense burdens thrust upon them.

TOO MANY 'IFS' HERE

RECOMMENDATION of the Committee for Economic Development for a cut of $2 billion or more in the federal tax take for next year is dotted with too many "ifs" to gain top attention in Congress.

One "if" is enough to cause Congress to

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

It can now be established by a wealth of detail that the essential reason for the failure of the Western countries to grasp what Soviet Russia was doing to them during the entire period of Stalin's rule (1924-1953) has been that the ruling men of these countries, including our own, resisted any understanding of Marxism-Leninism and therefore had no conception as to the motivation of the Russian leadership.

Stalin's great power was derived from the headship of the churchlike organization, to which he acceded in 1922. As such, he did not claim infallibility; he insisted upon it.

Without understanding that, every detail of conduct is without meaning. The leadership of Soviet Russia pursues Marxism-Leninism orthodoxly, and the depth of the orthodoxy can be measured by the present quarrel over the down-grading of Stalin.

For what appears most clearly in that is that after more than three decades of Stalin, the cult of personality only displayed itself on the surface; the basic belief of Soviet people anywhere is in Marxism-Leninism which the American Marxist theoretician, Howard Selsam, in his "Handbook of Philosophy," has stated so succinctly that it ought to be understandable even by pragmatic politicians, even by those who were sold on the original Marshall Plan and believed that money buys everything, including friendship, but could not realize the potent force of a belief.

Selsam says: "...Man, a part of nature and its highest product, changes and controls nature by means of tools and thereby compels the forces of nature to serve his ends. . ."

In that one sentence lies the whole of the Marxist concept of the world and life and man and the progress of human history.

Politicians, seeking a way to get along with the Kremlin, dodge the fundamental fact that those in the Kremlin have their own job to do which is to convert the entire human race to their system of life which is based on dialectical materialism and rejects other concepts wholly.

Lenin wrote: "The roots of modern religion are deeply embedded in the social oppression of the working masses, and in their apparently complete helplessness before the blind forces of capitalism, which every day and every hour cause a thousand times more horrible suffering and torture for ordinary working folk than are caused by exceptional events such as war, earthquakes, etc."

That is what they believe. In this country, we have gone astray because we have assumed that what the Marxists only wanted to do was to abolish private property. If that is all that they were interested in doing, it would not have been too difficult to get along with them.

The British nationalized 20 percent of their economy and many Americans who in this country are most vehement about private property objected to any criticism of the British for their socialism. In fact, it was American financial assistance which sustained the British Labour government on its socialistic road. And even in our own country, we have pledged the future of power to the atom, a wholly socialistic enterprise which makes the present quarrel between public and private power ridiculous.

ponder. Congressional candidates get votes by spending money in their districts for dams, reservoirs, power, recreation, pensions, welfare, roads and other things. And as long as voters encourage that spending Congress will take a dim view of reducing tax rates to benefit corporations or wage earners.

Brown Eyes Curb Sunburn?

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That if you have brown eyes you are less likely to suffer sunburn than if you have blue or gray eyes.

That the population of the United States is increasing at the rate of about 10,000 a day.

That the first successful American oil well, drilled in 1859 on a farm outside Titusville, Pa., was only 69½ feet deep. Today an operator may drill four miles down, spend $2 million and still end up with nothing but a hole in the ground.

That the human body is about 4 per cent rock. (In most of us, it seems to be concentrated between our ears.)

That meal from poultry feathers, which contain up to 88 per cent protein, is now being used as chicken feed.

That corn grits, a popular form of human nourishment in the South, now being imbedded in auto tires, help prevent skidding.

That during the witchcraft hysteria that gripped Salem, Mass., in 1692 even animals weren't safe. The good citizens hanged 19 men and women, crushed an old man to death between two stones and also two dogs executed whose behavior brought them under suspicion as witches.

That, speaking of dogs, we are in the "dog days" now. Precisely speaking, they don't last all summer, but only from July 3 to Aug. 11. During this 40-day period, Sirius, the dog star, can be seen over Egypt (where the term arose) and it is usually that land's hottest, most humid season.

That although water in itself isn't fattening, a survey showed 50 per cent of the people think it is.

That doctors say sleeping on your tummy is bad for your posture and helps make you sway-backed. They recommend sleeping either on your side with a small pillow under your knees. That the only packaged product in Abraham Lincoln's grocery store at New Salem, Ill., was breakfast cocoa.

That the Colonists planned the Boston Tea Party in a tavern called the Green Dragon, the secret meeting place of the Sons of Liberty.

That while it's highly improbable that "elephants never forget," they do have better memories than most animals.

That Steve Allen, in addition to all his television chores, has completed a book of poetry and is writing two novels.

That a check by a TV firm disclosed women spend 22 per cent more time than men in viewing video.

SYNOPSIS

A group of doctors in the Midwest suburb of Burbank try to establish a free screening clinic despite lack of money and opposition from the County Hospital. Dr. John Blandin, a strong booster of the project, returns from a meeting and tells his wife, Helen, that enough money has been donated to set up the clinic.

CHAPTER 2

JOHN BLANDIN did "go on," catching up the threads of the County doctors' reasons for wanting the clinic in the first place. Each of the four suburbs in question was as large as many a city, he said, with homes and families in greater proportion than most municipal settlements enjoyed.

Stores had been opened to serve these suburban families; doctors had come to live there, too, and had opened their offices, though most of them also affiliated with hospitals in the city.

But the doctors needed a way to reach the County people in the same fashion that the various hospital and clinic services were available—handy—to the people in the city. Three years ago, with this sort of service in mind, the doctors had formed an organization; their initial step had been to establish a night emergency call service. At first they rented a small store for a desk and their records, and the necessary book-keeping. Slight emergencies had come in there, or were brought, in the mistaken idea that a doctor would be present. The next step was to have one on hand. That predated some equipment, and the makeshift quarters were unsatisfactory for the purpose.

About that time the Country Day School gave up its property at the edge of Burbank. The doctors were asked if they would be interested in the "plant" as a permanent location. A favorable, long-term mortgage was offered them, and was accepted, hesitantly.

In the heart of the new shopping center, the location was ideal. The doctors' plan was to establish an examining clinic, a screening clinic, for well people.

If they could make a housewife take an hour from her shopping to go in for a check-up; if she would then send her husband in, and bring her children . . .

There were various organizations ready to help them, . . .

State Medical Association, the Public Health Service, the Heart and Cancer and Tuberculosis organizations.

And with their help the clinic was started. Some day the doctors hoped to have all the equipment and personnel that they needed.

"But now," John announced abruptly, "we can do all we want to do, and it can be free."

Helen jumped. She'd grown a little drowsy during the recapitulation of the clinic's history, which was as familiar to her as the chronological record of her marriage to John Blandin.

"What changed things tonight? What's the clinic going to use for money?"

John stood up. "The same thing the Milburns use, my sweet." Helen leaned back in her chair to study his face. "Oh," she moaned, "not Alice!"

"We want our clinic," he said tightly. "And Alice—Mrs. Milburn—is ready to give us the necessary cash to set us up properly. Immediately."

"Not just like that?" cried Helen. "Not just tonight—out of the blue?"

He sat down beside her, and put his hand affectionately upon her forehead. "I'll make it brief," he promised. "My idea was that the clinic might get the support of the Women's Club. I had hoped the whole Club would underwrite the clinic as a financial project."

Helen kept her face smooth and her tongue still. Until tonight, John had not mentioned this idea to her; she could have told him.

"But," he was saying, a little frown between his brows, "some politics—female, and thus incomprehensible to me—it had to do somewhat with so many terms on the Club's Board of Directors—anyway, it was politics, and in the course of it—or would it be them?—the Club turned the thing down. But fortunately for us—"

He hesitated. "Fortunately for us," he repeated, "Alice took their refusal as a direct slap at her, since she was the one who was pushing support of the clinic. Just to show those women—that was her term!—she has offered to finance the whole thing alone. As she can, of course."

"How much?" asked Helen.

"Enough to buy the building and equip it. Seventy-five thousand, at least."

"No strings?"

"Well, she'll be on our Board."

"Do you think you want Alice Milburn running your clinic, John?"

"She won't run it. We shall, Helen."

"Not with Alice on the Board. She'll dictate policy, if she doesn't do more. You know that!" John smiled ruefully, and rubbed his hand up the back of his neck and head. "I know all that," he admitted. "I've given the matter some thought."

"But the money talked, of course."

"Seventy-five thousand? Maybe a hundred? Sure, it yelled. Alice is honest, and intelligent. She agreed readily when I suggested that her attorney should represent her on the Board. And if we do a good job of running the clinic, sticking to our purpose, she'll let us alone."

"I know Alice Milburn. The lavender-and-old-lace lady is honest, and she is intelligent. But where a personal prejudice is concerned, she can also be a snake in the bouquet of sweet-heart roses. She—she—"

Her cheeks were rosy-red. "I'm sorry, John," she said contritely. "It's definitely decided then?"

"Yes. We chose a Board. Three doctors: I'm one of them. A representative from each of the sponsoring organizations. Mrs. Milburn, or her attorney. And one other—we called him a 'citizen.'"

"Choose him?"

"Tentatively. We must ask him to serve—it's Joseph Radman at the bank."

Helen began to gather her papers together. Mr. Radman might not serve; his wife belonged to the Women's Club.

"We've had another bit of luck," John announced. "As I told you, this thing's been cooking since Christmas. And it seems certain now that we shall be able to get Chad Mays to set us up and get us running in high gear."

Chad Mays . . . Helen whirled about. "Not the wonder boy?" she cried.

John nodded, smiling.

Drugs For Allergies

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

TWO new drugs give promise of bringing relief to many of the 16,000,000 Americans suffering from hay fever, asthma, eczema, hives, poison ivy and other allergic disorders.

At a recent meeting of the American Academy of Allergy in St. Louis, the drugs Mequitone and Meticortelone were cited as among the newest and best weapons in the treatment of allergic diseases that had failed to respond to other methods.

The drugs were first made available to the medical profession a little over a year ago.

Their initial success came in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis. In fact, more than 1,000,000 persons suffering from rheumatoid arthritis and other disease conditions are under treatment with these Meti-type drugs today.

The new steroids reportedly are four to five times more active and more potent than either cortisone or hydrocortisone. And they do not cause weight gains from retention of sodium and water, as did the older drugs.

Where cortisone, hydrocortisone and ACTH have failed in certain hay fever cases, the Meti drugs have succeeded.

Good Results
During the year-long evaluation, doctors say the drugs have prolonged life for the "critical list" asthmatic; provided clear breathing for the hay fever victim through the worst ragweed season in five years; dramatically cleared up the hives of girls who were allergic to nail polish.

Allergists report other conditions also have been relieved. These include certain types of bronchial asthma, rhinitis, dermatitis and dangerous pulmonary emphysema.

Nasal Polyps
One doctor told the Allergy Academy that the new drugs "dramatically shrink nasal polyps."

Polyps are the hard-tissue protruberances which often develop in the noses of victims of hay fever and acute sinusitis.

This doctor adds that his patients "finally got off nose drops." So maybe this pollen season won't be so bad after all.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
A. T. Both my parents are allergic. Does this mean that I will have allergies also?

Answer: Children who have two allergic parents are much more likely to have an allergy than those who do not or who have only one allergic parent.

There is a greater tendency also for the allergy to appear at an earlier age.

109 Youths Of This Area Attend 4-H Junior Camp

Event Features Western Theme

Approximately 109 youths from Pickaway County helped to make up the 173 4-H club members who attended the first camp period for the Ross-Hocking Extension Camp Association Incorporated.

This event was a junior camp, held at Tar Hollow, and directed by Ivor Jones, the Associate Agent of Ross County. He was assisted by Emily Marks, Dale Glass, Leora Sayre, Dick Swenson, and George Hamrick.

The theme used this year was Western instead of the former Indian. Campers were divided into the following ranch groups: Bar X, Circle W., Bar O, Double B., Flying Y, and Lazy J. Larry McEadden, and Sidney Graves were foremen of the latter two.

Classes were taught in leather tooling, link belts, lanyards, leather beanies, which were laced and tooled or autographed with paint, basketry, pin-up lamps, conservation and nature.

Aside from regular events such as dinners, sports, swimming, assemblies and varied recreation, there was a daily "Know Your Land" session. For this the agents supervised an educational feature on Extension in general with emphasis on 4-H.

Janet Grissom was chairman for the concluding highlight which was the candlelight recognition of the boy and girl who had been elected as the Spirits of Camp. In preparation for this each ranch group nominated a boy and a girl, whom they considered good campers from all angles of judgment.

Of the 12 candidates, the following were from Pickaway County: Sue Ruhl, Jerry Francis, Jeri Skinner, Dorothy Dewey, Robert Vincent, Linda Steck, and Terry Morris. The winning candidates were from Ross County.

The local councillors who had previously attended a 4-H Camp Association training session and who cooperated in leading the total camp program were: Sally Montgomery, Linda Wilson, Janet Grissom, Nancy Wilson, Linda Miller, Sidney Graves, Edith Deffenbaugh, Patricia Hockman, Mary Jo Bowers, Sylvia Smith, Janet Wolfe, Carolyn Newton, Roger Schneider, Richard Greene, Larry McEadden, William Harrel and Nathan Wilson.

The Senior Camp, to be directed by George Hamrick, Pickaway County Associate Agent, is scheduled for July 26-30.

Correct Posture Aids Appearance, Prevents Fatigue

Correct posture is important to everyone, both from the standpoint of appearance and preventing fatigue, says Lois Deneke, extension home management specialist of Ohio University in Columbus.

Maintaining good posture while stooping, lifting, carrying, sitting, standing, and walking may help reduce fatigue. It also reduces nervous tension and irritability.

Posture is closely related to four factors, according to Miss Deneke. These are: using body correctly, having the proper work heights, using the right tools and eating foods that build healthy muscles.

When you stand, stand tall. The head, chest, neck, and abdomen should be balanced vertically so that weak muscles do not have to bear the body weight. When the body is in a sitting position, the backbone should be straight.

It is wise to do as many jobs as possible from sitting position in order to save more energy for other tasks. In bending the thing to remember is to bend at the knees, Miss Deneke says.

The back should be in an upright position when lifting heavy loads to keep from twisting back muscles. When carrying a heavy weight it is wise to balance it equally in both arms, if possible.

The homemaker should be able to stand erect at work surfaces and not have to stretch or slump in order to get her hands in a comfortable position. Keeping things within easy reach helps eliminate a lot of bending or stretching, the specialist says.

Youngsters Responsible For Many Items Purchased

Youngsters may never buy a thing, but they are responsible for a large percentage of the things that are bought in stores throughout the country.

Among them are the following things, all new for the kids:

First, there is a novel intercom system that is a radio, too. The master control can, for example, be placed in the kitchen where Mom spends a great part of her day. The auxiliary is set in the nursery, so she can keep in touch with her tot.

Sounds from the nursery are transmitted through the control set in the kitchen. If Mom wants to deliver a message, such as "Quiet now! Go to sleep!" all she has to do is press a button and it is done.

Another asset of the gadget is the radio connection, which means you can tune a station on the master unit and it plays both there and on the auxiliary, giving you music throughout the house.

There are also a number of simple, less complicated, less expensive items.

Older youngsters will like a very simple present and one that costs only a few cents. It is only a box of bandages, but they are decorated with play-time pictures of animals. As anyone with children

Refreshing Drinks Welcome During Summer Months

Beat two egg whites until stiff. Add gradually to frozen mixture and beat until light and fluffy but not melted.

Return quickly to refrigerator tray and freeze until firm.

Fill tall glasses two-thirds full with frozen mixture. Add additional hot coffee and top with whipped cream. Serve simple cookies or pound cake with it.

Here is another iced coffee recipe that is out of the ordinary.

For Spiced Coffee Foam to serve four, prepare four cups freshly made, regular-strength coffee. Add 12 whole cloves and two pieces of three inch stick cinnamon. Chill.

Beat one egg white until stiff. Add four tablespoons sugar gradually and continue beating until stiff and glossy.

Add ½ cup cream and chilled coffee. Pour into tall glasses, one-third full of ice.

Dieters who must count calories will not have to worry about their waistlines when this cooler is served:

To serve six, combine one pint grape juice, two cups pineapple juice and one quart ginger ale. Pour over ice cubes in tall glasses.

Grape Iced Tea is healthful, different and delicious.

To serve six, pour four cups boiling water over four tablespoons loose tea. Steep five minutes. Strain.

Add six tablespoons sugar, stirring until dissolved.

Add one quart grape juice and juice of two lemons. Pour immediately over ice cubes in tall glasses.

are three men in our upper fifties, who have given more than 25 years' service to our employer. We are what is generally known as "white collar" employees, having no affiliation with a labor union. All other employees of our organization belong to a union.

We haven't been able to convince our employer that costs of the necessities of life have risen to a point where we, too, should be given a pay increase, along with union workers, to meet the rise in living costs.

Individually we have approached our employer on this subject, but the invariable reply is: "If you aren't satisfied, you know what you can do." He knows that it is almost impossible, at our age, to get another position paying the same wage; and we also know that.

The union workers get their periodic pay increases, in addition to pension, health and welfare insurance benefits that are paid for by the company. We realize how unfair our employer is; but even so, what can we do? We are trapped.

D. S.
DEAR D. S.: My first reaction to your letter is to wonder why you aren't affiliated with a labor union, if you are suffering for lack of effective bargaining power.

If you aren't management, nor a representative of management in dealing with labor in your outfit, then you come under the heading of labor, I should think. Perhaps you ought to explore the possibilities of joining forces with organized labor, to get the help of union backing.

To fathom your situation, I've talked with spokesmen for both camps, namely, management and labor.

The spokesman for management, a fair-minded fellow who negotiates wage rates for a big interstate commerce enterprise, says that the mere fact of your being white collar workers doesn't deny you the right to unionize. Only if you are supervisory personnel, or if you hold a confidential managerial position, would you be disqualified for union membership.

In the city through which you write, there is a local office of the National Labor Relations Board; and the management man says: "Go there for advice on how to cope with your employer's attitude." Humphrey's Role In Campaign Eyed As Law Violation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Vanik (D-Ohio) Monday called for a ruling by the U. S. attorney general on whether Treasury Secretary Humphrey's chairmanship of the Ohio Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee violates the Corrupt Practices Act.

Vanik said in a House speech: "This case requires the immediate determination by the attorney general of the United States who should endeavor to impartially look into this matter. If the Corrupt Practices Act does not apply to the participation of a high cabinet official in a senatorial campaign, then it should be corrected to so apply."

Humphrey has accepted the chairmanship of the campaign of Sen. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) against Democrat Frank J. Lausche, five-term Ohio governor.

Philly Negro To Aid Ohio GOP Program

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Republican Chairman Ray C. Bliss received a voice vote of confidence at a meeting here Monday of members of the State GOP Committee for his selection of Joseph H. Rainey of Philadelphia to work among Ohio's Negro voters.

The confidence vote followed defeat of a motion by W. O. Walker of Cleveland, only Negro member of the state committee, for a meeting of leading Ohio Negroes to develop a Republican program for voters of his race.

Bliss said Rainey, a Negro, was assigned to Ohio by the Minorities Division of the Republican National Committee. The Ohio chairman said he placed Rainey on his staff "because I felt he could do a job in Ohio."

Bliss said he hoped from 7 to 10 per cent of Ohio's 260,000 to 300,000 potential Negro voters will switch from the Democrats to the Republicans at the polls this fall.

In other actions Monday committee members picked Rep. J. Harry McGregor of West Lafayette, 17th District congressman, as permanent chairman of the Republican State Convention to be held in Columbus Sept. 12.

Mrs. Florence G. Morris of Toledo was named temporary chairman.

Hit-Run Victim Ignores Injury, Helps Nab Driver

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Ralph Sachs, despite several broken ribs, assisted in apprehending a motorist who had knocked him down at a midtown intersection and then failed to stop his car.

Police gave this account: The 53-year-old Sachs got up and ran after the vehicle, securing a hold of the door. The car still didn't stop and Sachs finally lost his grip and fell to the pavement.

Just then a police patrol car arrived. Sachs climbed in and within a few minutes the fleeing motorist, George Hunt, Jr., 35, was halted. He was charged with drunken driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Sachs was hospitalized for treatment of his rib fractures.

Cleric On Gambling Strip Sees Business Booming Too

By BOB THOMAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Twenty-three years ago, a young Irish priest just out of seminary in New York, told a friend he had chosen Nevada as the place to start his church career.

"Nevada," the friend exclaimed. "Why in Heaven's name would you go there? Why, there's nothing but a few houses next to the highway. Your church will look like a mission in China."

Nevertheless, Father John Ryan went West. After being stationed in most of the sizable towns in the state, he is now pastor of St. Anne's, the closest church to the great show capital, the Las Vegas strip.

On a recent Sunday, Father Ryan could look down at mass and see such famous faces as Jimmy Durante, Danny Thomas, Stars, chorus girls, pit men, croupiers and plain citizens fill St. Anne's each Sunday. The congregations are so sizable that six masses are held.

"We have mass at 6, 8, 9:30, 11,

12:15 and also at five in the afternoon," said Father Ryan. "The reason is that people work such odd hours in this town."

"The afternoon mass is unusual, but it is permitted by dispensation in areas where it is necessary. We have found that it is helpful in a town like this, where many people work all night and rise in the afternoon."

Father Ryan came to Las Vegas four years ago to find St. Anne's out in the desert without even a road before it. Now there is a road, a thriving church, a grammar and high school.

His latest enthusiasm is a youth center to provide healthful recreation for children of all sects. Last weekend the town pitched in for a gala barbecue, auction and entertainment to pay off the $30,000 debt on the center.

I asked him if the presence of gambling in the community presented a moral problem in his parish.

"Gambling is not a sin per se,"

he replied, "though it is if done in excess. Anything is."

"Certainly gambling can be a moral problem, as when a man with a wife and three children loses all his earnings at the games. But this sort of thing happens less than you would expect."

WASHINGTON (AP)—When Harold E. Stassen gambled his own political future by opposing renomination of Vice President Nixon, he linked other Republicans with him.

Stassen, special assistant on disarmament to President Eisenhower, denied he was acting as "front man" for anyone in trying to keep Nixon off the ticket.

But he said in an interview at his home Monday night a group of "Republican leaders" — whom he wouldn't identify — had collaborated with him in using professional pollsters to test public sentiment on the vice presidency.

Stassen said he was not speaking for these "leaders" and that they would speak out and identify themselves in due time. But he said he had consulted with them before making his statement.

Now the question becomes, Who are they? And how influential are they?

The polls, Stassen said, had been made repeatedly over the past month. Among whom? Republicans, laborites and others. What questions were asked? A number about possible running mates for Eisenhower.

He said the polls showed the reelection chances of Eisenhower would be 6 per cent better with Gov. Christian A. Herter as his vice presidential running mate than with Nixon on the ticket.

There can be no doubt the statement did the Republican party no good if its convention in August picks Nixon again. Stassen, in calling for Nixon to step aside, angered many professional Republican politicians.

It may cost Stassen his job. If that happens, his political future looks dark indeed—although he said at his home he didn't think he'd be fired or pressured out. He said he has no intention of resigning.

What he did, Stassen said, was "fulfill my duty and responsibility as I see it to the President and to our country and to our Republican party." He told Eisenhower Friday what he was going to do Monday.

If the Nixon forces think Stassen was doing a hatchet job on him, it at least would not be the first time Stassen has actively tried to shove another man out of the running for high office.

In the 1952 primaries Stassen campaigned hard, particularly against Sen. Robert A. Taft, Ohio Republican, Taft, not Stassen, was Eisenhower's main opponent. Before convention time Stassen said he had gone into the race to stop Taft. He said he wanted to stop that "viewpoint of semi-isolation and extreme conservatism in the Republican party from getting to the top."

At the convention he threw his support to Eisenhower and, after the election, was given a high government job as director of the mutual security program. Later Eisenhower made him his assistant on disarmament.

Although Stassen Monday night called Nixon a "burden" on the Republican ticket, he would not say precisely why he was so opposed to Nixon. He referred to his argument earlier in the day but that was full of generalities.

It is possible Stassen still retains some presidential ambitions — if he manages to survive this turmoil he caused among Republican politicians.

Lowering Of Lake Level Is Feared

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to authorize diversion of more water from Lake Michigan into the Illinois waterway was criticized yesterday by Sen. Ives (R-NY) as possibly adversely affecting Niagara Falls and St. Lawrence River power projects. He hinted President Eisenhower might veto the bill again, as he did in 1954.

Ives quoted Army engineers as saying that every inch of reduction in the water levels of the Great Lakes could force each vessel plying the lakes to reduce loads by approximately 100 tons.

Fluoride Tests Labeled Success

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Public Health Service reports that a 10-year study of Grand Rapids, Mich., has shown a "striking reduction" in tooth decay among children as a result of fluoridation of drinking water.

A special study of Grand Rapids was undertaken in 1944-45, to run 10 to 15 years. It is being conducted by the Health Service, the Michigan Department of Health and the city.

He's No Escapee, Just Pig-Chaser

WARREN, Maine (AP)—State Police issued an alarm that Armand Vigue, 23, had escaped from the state prison farm.

The alarm was recalled when Vigue returned to the farm with a pig in his arms.

Vigue explained he had run into the woods to catch the pig, a 2-hour job. The pig, he said, had broken out of the pen at the farm.

Eisenhower was still recovering from his operation and before it was announced he would run again—Stassen said that if Eisenhower didn't run he thought the Republicans could win with their Chief Justice Earl Warren or himself as head of the ticket.

Asked Monday night if he still felt that way — if anything now happened which caused Eisenhower to withdraw—Stassen said he would not discuss this possibility since the party was operating now on the assumption Eisenhower would run.

He was asked flatly if he would say he would not run. But he did not give a direct answer.

Sokolsky's These Days

The Marxist demands more than the abolition of private property. He believes that it is historically inevitable that the next stage of advanced human society is the Marxist stage, which in our terms means the abolition of our traditions, our religion, our particular type of family system, as well as private property.

It is, of course, possible to make a temporary deal with any country, but we must not be surprised if the other country interprets the deal in terms of its own morals. Lenin, writing on the fundamental law of revolution, said:

"... It is not sufficient for revolution that the exploited and oppressed masses understand the impossibility of living in the old way and demand changes; for the revolution it is necessary that the exploiters should not be able to live and rule in the old way. Only when the 'lower classes' do not want the old and when the 'upper classes' cannot continue in the old way then only can the revolution be victorious."

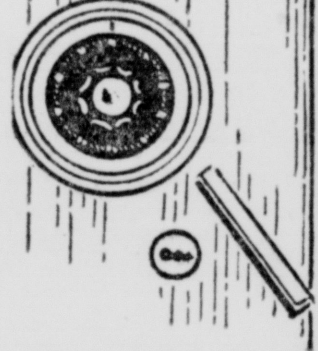

This means that a revolution can only follow a national crisis and it is the function of the Kremlin to bring on a national crisis in every country. Its propaganda is nearly everywhere most successful among those who are regarded as "the upper classes."

Moscow has been the capital of Russia since 1918, following the revolution of 1917. Before that, Petrograd (now Leningrad) was the capital.

AS IMPORTANT AS Time-Locks

The banker can easily protect the money in its strong vaults by means of time-locks, burglar alarms, insurance, etc.

But the real job is protecting the bank's money while it is out of the bank — in loans and investments. This job calls for all the banking knowledge and experience which he possesses.

Good management means that the banker must use careful judgment in finding a safe job for each one of these dollars. His ability to do this assures safety for the bank's depositors.

Lima Death Trial Due In September

LIMA (AP)—The first degree murder trial of William Francis Swearingen, 27, of Marion, scheduled for yesterday in the Allen County common pleas court, has been postponed until September.

Swearingen is accused of taking part in the holdup of a Lima tavern in which John R. Mooney, 29, of Lima, was slain by one of three holdup men.

Kenneth J. Orth, 25, of Marion, tried on the same charge in connection with Mooney's death, was acquitted July 18.

Nixon's Father Leaves Hospital

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP)—Vice President Nixon's father, Frank Nixon, has gone to his home in Whittier from Cottage Hospital in Fullerton, where he was confined a week ago by stomach hemorrhages.

Because of his arthritic condition, the 77-year-old Nixon probably will be confined to his bed and chair, hospital officials said. They said the ulcer condition had responded well to treatment.

1955 Ohio Work Stoppages Show Jump Over '54 Totals

COLUMBUS (AP)—Work stoppages in Ohio during 1955 caused 2,570,000 man-days of idleness, or 40 per cent more than the previous year of 1954, according to Margaret Mahoney, director of the Industrial Relations Department.

Her report defined a work stoppage as a strike or lockout. Some 434 stoppages beginning in 1955 amounted to 63 per cent more than the previous year, the report said. Of the six leading industrial states, Ohio ranked second in man-days of idleness, Pennsylvania was highest with 3,350,000 man-days.

Playing a leading role in the high idleness of these two states were stoppages in the basic steel industry and Westinghouse Electric Co.

In Ohio, 85,400 steel workers were idle one day of July, while 15,100 workers were out at Westinghouse plants from mid-October through the end of the year. Some 11,800 were idle in another Westinghouse stoppage during four days of September.

Two other nationwide stoppages idled more than 10,000 Ohio workers—26,600 idled intermittently at General Motors Corp. plants during a 12-day period in June, and 12,000 at Ford Motor Co. plants one day in June.

Ohio's total idleness amounted to seven and one-half hours for each worker in non-agricultural, non-governmental employment. This was over two hours more than in 1954.

Cleveland had the most idleness of the eight biggest metropolitan areas of the state, with 549,000 man-days lost. But Columbus had the most idleness relative to the number of workers in the area. Columbus lost 62 per cent of its workers' man-days of worktime.

The man-days of idleness after Cleveland were: Columbus 304,143,000; Canton, 117,000; Youngstown, 92,000; Dayton, 39,600, and Toledo 32.

The report said wage increase was the sole issue in a third of the stoppages resulting in a fourth of the idleness. Shop conditions and policies were the issue in 12 per cent of the stoppages and job security in 1 per cent. Stoppages over wages, hours or fringe benefits—or a combination of those—made up 56 per cent of all the 1955 stoppages.

The idleness was 29 per cent below the average of the post-World War II years.

HERE'S HOW . . .

MAKE A HUTCH TABLE-BENCH

An old-fashioned hutch is a useful and unique piece of furniture.

The entire hutch may be made of 1-inch finished lumber. Edge-glue boards to make the large panels. The table top may be of hardwood plywood. Cut out the parts as shown.

Notch the end pieces to the actual width of the side pieces. Do not cut the seat base, the lid or the hinge board behind it until after partial assembly of the other bench parts. There pieces may then be fitted more exactly.

Use glue at all joints and No. 5 wood screws, 1 1/4 inches long, or 6-penny finishing nails. Counter bore for the screws, and fill the holes with glued dowel plugs.

Assemble by fastening one side board to the ends, add the bottom of the hutch, and then the other side piece. Attach the lid jamba to the under sides of the seat borders, allowing a 1/2-inch extension to support the lid before setting the borders in place.

Then add the hinge board. Attach the lid to the hinge board with butt hinges. Center the top braces beneath the table top.

Sand the hutch, rounding all sharp edges. Stain and varnish, or paint, as desired.

Kochheisers Win 10-4 Over Lions

Local Lads Gain Sweet Revenge, For Defeat Suffered Last Week

Circleville's Kochheisers gained sweet revenge over the Northern Lions as they beat the Columbus crew 10 to 4 in a Central Ohio Babe Ruth League game Monday. The losers committed six errors.

Last week the Lions handed Kochheisers their first defeat in eight games with a 10-3 victory. In that game, the local lads could not seem to do anything right.

However, they went to town Monday and jumped all over Hicks, the pitcher who had handcuffed them last Thursday. Kochheiser batters knocked across five runs in the opening frame and from then on it was easy going.

Braves, Bums Shun Cincy's Ugly Ducklings

Milwaukee, Brooklyn Mark Off Redlegs As Serious Flag Threat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cincinnati Redlegs, the National League's "ugly ducklings," stubbornly continue to hover with in sight of the pot o' gold despite snubs by Milwaukee and Brooklyn. Although the Redlegs trailed front-running Milwaukee by only 2½ games after Monday night's 4-3, triumph over Pittsburgh, Braves' officials still regard the third-place Brooklyn Dodgers as the team to beat for the pennant.

The Dodgers, in turn, have eyes only for the Braves, who lead them by six games.

As the Dodgers prepared to meet Cincinnati tonight at Ebbets Field, Dodger General Manager E. J. (Buzie) Bavasi was quoted as saying the only team he feared was Milwaukee.

"Cincinnati has a good club but Milwaukee has more balance and finer pitching," he said. Birdie Tebbets has handled what he's got very well. We just don't have the pitching to stop them as the other clubs do."

Johnny Klippstein (8-6), who has beaten the Dodgers three times this season, was scheduled to pitch for the Redlegs against the veteran Sal Maglie (2-3).

Only two games were scheduled Monday, both at night, one in each league. In the American League's only encounter, the last-place Kansas City Athletics upset the White Sox in Chicago 3-2.

Cincinnati's victory Monday night came when Johnny Temple singled home Bob Thurman in the eighth inning with the deciding run. The triumph went to Brooks Lawrence in relief. Lawrence, who won his first 13 decisions, now owns a 14-1 record.

Eloy Face was charged with the defeat, his sixth. Thurman, who scored Cincinnati's winning run, kept the Reds in the game with a sixth-inning home run.

Kansas City scored all its runs inside the first three innings, then held off the White Sox on strong relief pitching by Tom Gorman and Bobby Shantz. Hec Lopez drove in the A's first two runs in the second, and Vic Power singled in what proved to be the winning run in the third.

Gorman replaced starter Jack McMahon with the bases full in the second and forced Nellie Fox to hit into an inning-ending double play. He limited the Sox to three hits until the ninth when he walked Jim Delsing, who scored Chicago's second run on pinch hitter Ron Northey's double. Shantz then came in to retire the next three batters.

Jim Wilson suffered his eighth loss against 11 victories. Gorman got the victory to even his season's record at 6-6.

Softball Tourney Ends First Round

BOWLING GREEN (AP)—Three games last night wound up the first round of the Ohio International Softball League state tournament, and two of them went into extra innings.

Bowling Green VFW was extended to 11 innings before edging Routh Packers of Tiffin, 2-1. The Toledo Playboys had to go nine innings to beat Fremont, 4-3.

In the third game of the double-elimination tournament, Harley's Gulf of Napoleon trounced Mesa 7-1, also of Napoleon, 12-1.

Napoleon Ford meets Gerald Merchants tonight and Bowling Green plays the Playboys.

Dupont Team Wins Tie Game Playoff

In continuation of a tie game halted last week by darkness, DuPont came out on top by a score of 9 to 5 over Chamber of Commerce Monday night at Ted Lewis Park.

Play resumed in the top of the sixth inning, with the score tied at 2 to 2. The DuPont crew went on to score five runs, while the Chamber boys could manage only three runs in the two innings played.

Shirley Fry Adds Another Crown

CHICAGO (AP)—Wimbledon champion Shirley Fry "just had to" win her first National Clay Courts Tennis championship yesterday in order to save face at a hometown banquet later this week.

Miss Fry, trailing badly in the first set, rallied to defeat Althea Gibson of New York City, 7-5, 6-1, and Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., also came from behind to win his second men's title with a long, drawn out 3-6, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3, triumph over Ed Moylan of Trenton, N. J.

Burke, Kroll Vie For Top Honors In PGA Tournament

CANTON, Mass. (AP)—According to golfers who play in it — and some who won't — the Professional Golfers Assn. Championship is the toughest of all major tournaments because of its length and the unceasing pressure.

Two players well fitted physically and temperamentally to withstand this grind — Jackie Burke and Ted Kroll — meet today to battle it out over 36 holes of a woody, country-type golf course for the title and the $5,000 top prize.

Burke, 33, apparently is just reaching the peak of his competitive game after a too-long apprenticeship in which he was regarded as a perennial great prospect. Kroll, 37, is a wiry, weather-beaten tournament campaigner who plays every week on the pro tour and never seems to turn a hair whether the going is good or bad.

Since play began in the PGA last Friday, Burke already has played 121 holes of golf, almost without a breathing spell. Kroll didn't have a letup either until

Horseshoe Aces Near Final Stage Of Round-Robin

MURRAY, Utah (AP)—Sam Somerhalder of Ruskin, Neb., and Walter Krowell of Manhattan Beach, Calif., wound up on top last night and will meet tomorrow night in the Class B World Horseshoe Pitching Championships.

Somerhalder finished 15 matches in the round-robin tournament with 12 wins and 3 defeats. Krowell and Roy Ross of Carthage, Mo., each finished with 11-4, but Krowell beat Ross in the playoff match, 50-27, to earn the right to play Somerhalder for the Class B crown.

Class A competitors continued matches last night with defending champion Ted Allen of Boulder, Colo., in front. They have another round tomorrow night before the top four of a 36-man field are determined for the championship playoff.

Preliminary scores of other Class B competitors included: Stanley Manker, Martinsville, Ohio, 9-6; Denver Ford, Fayette, Ohio, 4-11.

Local Little League All-Stars Triumph Over Williamsport

Circleville won a close 3 to 1 victory over Williamsport in a Little League all-star game played Monday night at the Ted Lewis diamond.

The local all-stars scored early, with two runs in the first inning and one in the second. The losers chalked up their lone run in the fourth frame.

Winning pitcher Weller allowed the Williamsport batters only one hit and registered 13 strikeouts. Here is the line score:

terday in the Western Girls Tennis Championship.

In the 15 and under division, 10-year-old Julie Heldman of Hamtramck, Mich., pulled the closest thing to an upset when she defeated Vicki Seigel, 14, of Middletown, 11-9, 9-7.

Monday's semifinals, when the upset king of the earlier rounds turned out to be just a "pigeon" for a real tough competitor.

Kroll, shooting relentlessly steady golf, won by a near-record 10 and 8 margin from Bill Johnston, the 31-year-old club pro from Provo, Utah, who had beaten such players as Jay Hebert, ex-champion Walter Burkemo and Henry Ransom in the 18-hole duels.

Johnston was outclassed and soon realized it.

Putting was a big factor in Burke's 37-hole victory over Ed Furgol in about as exciting a match as this 38-year-old tournament has seen.

The Lame-armed Furgol, who lashes out at the ball in a jerky, vicious-looking way and achieves surprising results, moaned: "I should have beaten the man 9 and 8 or 7 and 6 if I had putted. I found the greens here hard to putt. They're not uniform."

The Blue Hill Country Club — a sort of Boston version of Tam o' Shanter — has a rolling course 6,634-yards long, with rocks and trees a little way off in the rough and some greens that were badly damaged by weather last fall and winter.

Burke played it amazingly well up to Monday. Then he had all kinds of trouble on the early holes.

He came from 5 down at the 14th to 2 down at the 18th and then 2 up at the 28th after he had won five straight holes. The grim, crooked-armed Furgol caught him at the 35th and pulled off a couple of fine shots on the 36th to stay alive. A 12-footer on the 37th hole saved Burke.

Giovanelli Scores TKO Over Poirier

NEW YORK (AP)—Danny Giovanelli has himself a winning streak of one today and a solid reputation as a comeback guy among the middleweights.

The 24-year-old New Yorker came back from a near knockout midway through the eighth round and nailed Gene Poirier for a technical knockout before the round was over last night in their scheduled 10-rounder at St. Nick's arena.

Changes Revealed In Baseball Sked

Several changes in Babe Ruth League games for this week have been revealed. Please consult revised sports calendar.

Two exhibition games are on tap for Thursday and Friday evenings. Tarlton will meet the Lions on Thursday and Williamsport on Friday.

Wednesday's game will be between the Elks and Derby at a new time, 8:15 p. m.

Flat-Country Motorists Can Meet Real Trouble In Mountains

Safety Council Issues Special List Of Memos

Precautions Cover Story In Terms Of Trained Drivers

Most of Pickaway County's motorists are accustomed to flat country, gentle curves and long-sight distances. And as a result, unless they drive with special care, they can find themselves meeting dangerous situations on a steep mountain curve.

Because mountain driving requires extra knowledge and skills, the National Safety Council offers the following advice if you plan to drive in the mountains:

1. One of the most frequent causes of mountain mishaps is too much downgrade. The average flat-country driver has learned to sense dangerous speed by vibration and wind noise and to expect easy curves. In the mountains, speed may be too fast long before the speedometer or the usual danger signals give warning. Curves are tortuous compared to ordinary roads. The inexperienced driver, finding himself entering a curve too fast, may brake too heavily and throw himself into a skid, he may oversteer in a panicky reaction to the pull of centrifugal force, or he may veer across the center line into the path of oncoming cars.
2. Runaway speed can result from wearing out the brakes. Using engine compression to hold the car by descending in a lower gear is the only safe practice. Brakes, when used, should be applied intermittently. Constant application builds up terrific heat which not only wears brake bands, but may expand the drums and even cause the hydraulic fluid to boil. The vapor bubbles then compress when the brakes are applied, with loss of positive action. If brakes get mushy, stop and let them cool.

3. Never let your desire to save gas lead you to coast downhill out of gear. Forget about economy. Coasting is so dangerous it is against the law in many states.
4. For the same reason, don't descend in overdrive. Incidentally, it strains an engine to climb in overdrive, so for mountain driving it is best not to use it at all.

5. Many new cars have automatic transmissions which provide less engine compression in the normal driving range than conventional gears. On steep downgrades, the control should be set in the "Low" position. Once you are rolling, this will give engine compression about equivalent to the regular second gear. But change to "Low" before you start down.
6. On the subject of automatic transmissions, don't forget they may creep when the car is stopped unless the control knob is set for "Parking." So in mountain parking lots or roadside turnouts, don't leave the car to take that snapshot unless the transmission control is in parking and the parking brake is set.

7. Driving on the wrong side of the road is one of the most common causes of mountain accidents. This can result from too much speed on curves or from passing on upgrades. Sometimes it is from a psychological fear of the drop—nervous and inexperienced drivers stay so far away from the edge of the precipice that they take their half in the middle.
8. Passing other vehicles on mountain roads is a ticklish proposition and requires more self-control than the flat-country driver commonly exercises. The only rule is—never take a chance! On winding mountain roads you never get to see very far ahead. Downhill, it often is possible to pass safely, but there is danger in building up too much speed in your desperation to get around. Uphill, the danger is miscalculation of the accelerating and overtaking rate, which naturally is much slower than on level highways. If a driver behind you starts to pass, slow down and let him around as quickly as possible. Don't risk a pileup that may involve you.

9. Don't drink. That's a good idea anytime you are going to drive, but it's even more important in the mountains. The intoxicating effect of alcohol increases with altitude. And speaking of alcohol, it is no good for your car, either. In the thinner air of high altitudes, alcohol boils easily. Use a non-alcoholic anti-freeze if the season makes such protection advisable.

10. Stopping on the highway to look at scenery or to take pictures is dangerous. Always pull completely off the road, or use one of the observation parking areas frequently provided.
11. In the thinner mountain air, uphill driving on a warm day may heat the motor enough to cause vaporlock or radiator boil. Vapor lock is due to high engine heat causing gasoline in fuel lines and fuel pump to vaporize, so that the pump sucks on the bubbly liquid with little effect. There is nothing to do but wait until it cools, possibly hurrying things along by wrapping a cloth soaked in cold water around the fuel pump. The radiator of modern cars shouldn't boil if you are not using alcohol, if the water level is checked every morning, if the radiator cells are not clogged with bugs and dirt, and if the fan belt is properly adjusted to move the maximum amount of air. Overheating results chiefly from climbing in too high a gear. Don't take it as an affront to your car's performance if it strains in high gear. Shift—for pride goeth before a boiling radiator. If it does boil, use extreme caution in removing the cap. Shield your hand with a rag and turn it a quarter turn, which allows steam to escape without spraying boiling water.

12. In a mountain rainstorm, vacuum wipers may slow down or virtually quit on an upgrade, especially on older cars. There is nothing to do but let up on the accelerator frequently to permit a couple of swipes. Electric wipers or vacuum wipers with boosters do not present this difficulty.
13. Sudden weather changes can be extremely dangerous in the mountains—especially in the late Fall when unexpected snowfall is a possibility. Fogs are common, too, and require the utmost caution.

14. The usual forehandedness in preparing for a trip is especially necessary for mountain driving. The prudent driver might carry a spare fan belt, a collapsible bucket to dip water from streams, a lighting circuit fuse if his car uses them, an adequate first aid kit, a flashlight, and a package of red flares—fuses—which can be obtained in any auto supply store. The brakes should be adjusted and balanced and the pedal should have adequate reserve. The cooling system should be checked and cleaned, and the spare tire made ready for use.

15. Plan every day's trip to reach a stopping point well before dark. Then the need to hurry won't tempt you to drive too fast, you will avoid the hazards of night driving, your trip will be more enjoyable, and you'll get a better choice of hotel or motor court accommodations.

Ohio Underground Parking Chieftains Given Blueprints

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Underground Parking Commission has received plans for a 2 level garage extending to 27 feet below street level, on the Ohio Capital grounds here.

The plans, placed before the commission Monday, were accompanied by a traffic and revenue report suggesting a garage with spaces for 1,000 to 1,100 cars. The H. K. Ferguson Co. of Cleveland, which prepared the preliminary plans and estimates proposed parking charges ranging from 35 cents for one hour to $1.75 for 18-24 hours.

The firm estimated the annual gross from the garage would be $511,497.

Wilber Smith and Associates of New Haven, Conn., must submit a final traffic and revenue report before the commission can determine whether or not the proposed garage is feasible.

Local guests present at the meeting included the following members of the Pickaway County Judiciary: William D. Radcliff, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, Sterling M. Lamb, Judge of the Circleville Municipal Court, and Guy G. Cline, probate judge.

Judge Weygant spoke on "Mysteries of the Judiciary." His discussion, in non-technical terms, described various procedures of the state government.

Theme for the chief justice's talk was that "organized government can have no greater responsibility than the administration of even-handed justice to our people."

Gerald Staley, lieutenant-governor of the eighth division of the Ohio Kiwanis, was also a guest of the local club.

Ten members from the West Franklin County Kiwanis Club attended the session for an inter-club meeting.

Revised Offer Hinted Readied In Steel Strike

Company Chiefs Meet Prior To Negotiation Parley With Union

NEW YORK — Representatives of the nation's major steel companies met behind closed doors today, apparently to work over a new offer aimed at ending the 24-day-old steel strike. They will meet later with negotiators for the United Steelworkers of America.

Both sides have declined to say anything about the reported new offer. There was speculation it would call for a three-year contract in contrast to industry's original demand for a five-year one, and one or two cents more than offered previously in hourly benefits.

John A. Stephens, industry's top negotiator, met with his management group at the Biltmore Hotel during the morning while David J. McDonald, union president, met secretly with union representatives at Hampshire House.

"Please God, that this visit to New York will be more fruitful than the last," he said.

Earlier contract talks here ended in a stalemate that signaled a walkout of 650,000 steelworkers. Nearly 90 per cent of the national steel capacity has been idled by the strike and about 103,000 workers in allied industries have been laid off.

THE NEW discussions were called Sunday by the industry's top negotiator, John A. Stephens of U. S. Steel. Talks in Pittsburgh had collapsed last week.

There was speculation that the companies might be prepared either to revise their basic proposals or to modify them within the framework of the long-term pact they say is necessary for industry stability.

The companies have offered a contract lasting four years and four months with what they say is a package wage boost amounting to 17 2/3 cents in the first year. The union estimated the offer at 14 cents an hour and said it was too little. The union also favors a two-year contract.

The steelworkers' prestrike wages averaged $2.46 an hour. The union has never made public its wage demands but is reportedly seeking an increase of 15 cents an hour.

Strike effects — Nearly 90 per cent of national steel capacity idle. 650,000 USW members on strike, approximately 103,000 other workers already furloughed in allied industries, principally transportation and mines; effects spreading to more industries as stockpiles of steel are depleted; Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) calls for settlement before U. S. economy is "strangled" and "whole free world" endangered.

Federal action—Mediation service on sidelines as parties resume talks under own power; administration closely watching negotiation progress, has acted to conserve available special steels for defense needs.

Living Cost Hits Record High In June

WASHINGTON — The cost of living reached an all-time high in June, the government reports.

The Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics said consumer prices in American cities rose seven-tenths of 1 per cent above the May level.

The index for June stood at 116.2 per cent of the 1947-49 average, 1.6 per cent above the level a year earlier.

More than 100,000 General Electric Co. employees will receive a wage increase averaging more than two cents an hour as a result of the increase in the index.

James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, said the boost will add $80,000 weekly to pay envelopes.

Under an agreement signed in August last year the employees received a raise of a half-cent for each one-half of 1 per cent that the cost of living index rises over a base figure of 114.9.

The bureau said an average increase of 2 per cent in food prices, partly seasonal, was primarily responsible for the general rise.

Miss Bernadette Loeper, 24, of Reading, Pa., driver of the car, suffered bruises and lacerations of her chest, back and thigh. She was also treated here and released.

MRS. MARY LOEPER, 64, suffered injuries to her left shoulder and arm and to her chest. She also was transferred to Mt. Carmel Hospital.

The Loeperes were westbound on Route 22, traveling on vacation to New Mexico, according to the sheriff's office here. As their car rounded the curve, the car struck the right berm and the air in one of the tires apparently was released.

The car then swerved across the highway and rolled over into a culvert on the opposite side of the road. Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said the car was completely demolished.

Today's World News In Brief

Alcatraz Foils Another Escapee

SAN FRANCISCO — Another attempt to escape from grim Alcatraz prison ended early today like the others—in failure—when murderer Floyd Wilson was found crouched behind a rock barely 150 yards from the spot where he disappeared.

Wilson, serving a life term on the famed Rock, surrendered meekly 11 1/2 hours after he slipped away while working on the prison dock.

His capture ended an intensive foot-by-foot search by FBI agents and prison guards of the small island in San Francisco Bay. Federal officials have called it escape-proof ever since the prison was set up 22 years ago.

Associate Warden J. B. Latimer said Wilson was found near the water's edge on the east end of the island.

Wilson, sent to Alcatraz in 1932 for the murder of a Washington, D. C., grocer, probably will be placed in isolation pending filing of escape charges.

The prisoner was captured as Coast Guard patrol boats circled the island, located about a mile offshore, playing searchlights on both the shore and the water.

Koster, whose back was splinted in an auto crash Nov. 18, 1942, will celebrate his 37th birthday in the hospital Aug. 2. Friends are planning a little party on his birthday, which may be a big thing after all.

Nixon Given Warm Nod By Nation's Chief

Eisenhower and Nixon in advance of his proposed action.

He challenged the Republican National Committee to "check the sentiment of the people" on the relative strength of Nixon and Herter, and indicated he plans to continue his effort.

At his office on his return from the airport Stassen said he has had a number of telegrams and telephone calls concerning his statement and they are running about 10 to 3 in backing his stand.

Stassen had about 15 or 20 copies of telegrams in his hand but did not say how many in all he had received.

He said some of them were from delegates and party leaders and to them he was sending this telegram:

"May I respectfully suggest that you verify my basic appraisal of sentiment by talking with your own neighbor and associates, including particularly independents and those of labor and minorities who hold the decisive balance in elections; and that if convenient you take a local opinion poll regarding this negative factor before the convention."

Stassen said nobody has challenged his appraisal that Nixon on the ticket would reduce by 6 per cent the vote Eisenhower could get with Herter as his mate.

Stronger Leaf Tobacco Seen 'In Demand Now'

Boom In Filter Brands Brings Call For Heavy Texture In 'Weed'

By SAM DAWSON

RICHMOND, O.—The cigarette makers have rolled with the punches in the last year or so with fair success. Now the tobacco farmer may face some new problems of his own as a result.

His crop prospects look reasonably good. But some new notes have crept into the chant of the tobacco auctioneer. Thank filter tipped cigarettes and the move to cut manufacturing costs by using parts of the leaf once discarded. These developments could affect both prices and quantity of purchases this year. And the appearance of foreign competition in world markets adds still another uncertainty.

Tobacco men here say that the new crop, with picking now starting in some sections, has been helped greatly by well timed rains in contrast to the droughts that plagued large sections in the last two or three years.

Manufacturers are happier, too, since sales have rebounded from the bad dip that followed health scare talk. For the nation, cigarette production in the first four months of this year was six per cent ahead of the previous year. The outlook for the rest of the year is good, producers add.

In dealing with the talk about a possible link of lung cancer with smoking—about which there is still a very wide difference of opinion—the cigarette makers have profited from the big shift to filter tipped smokes which helped them recapture temporarily lost sales.

But keen rivalry between brands has led the tobacco companies to new production devices. Some smokers complained that the smoke lost much of its strength, as well as its tars, in passing through filters. Tobacco men say that this has led to experimenting with heavier bodied tobaccos—letting more strength get through.

Farmers who have heavier bodied—and formerly lower priced varieties of tobacco—stand to gain by the higher demand this year for the leaves they grow. But before the filter tipped cigarette made its great gains, some tobacco companies were emphasizing mildness and advising farmers to plant prime quality tobacco, then commanding higher prices.

These farmers complain that this year when their crop comes to market they may find lessened demand for the quality leaf than they had anticipated, while their neighbor down the road who stayed with the stronger variety may see his once low or medium priced leaf climb up the value scale. Some manufacturers reply there will be room for both in meeting consumer tastes.

Anthropophobia is the fear of society.

109 Youths Of This Area Attend 4-H Junior Camp

Event Features Western Theme

Approximately 109 youths from Pickaway County helped to make up the 173 4-H club members who attended the first camp period for the Ross-Hocking Extension Camp Association Incorporated.

This event was a junior camp, held at Tar Hollow, and directed by Ivor Jones, the Associate Agent of Ross County. He was assisted by Emily Marks, Dale Glass, Leora Sayre, Dick Swenson, and George Hamrick.

The theme used this year was Western instead of the former Indian. Campers were divided into the following ranch groups: Bar X, Circle W., Bar O, Double B., Flying Y, and Lazy J. Larry McFadden, and Sidney Graves were foremen of the latter two.

Classes were taught in leather tooling, link belts, lanyards, leather beanie, which were laced and tooled or autographed with paint, basketry, pin-up lamps, conservation and nature.

Aside from regular events such as vespers, sports, swimming, assemblies and varied recreation, there was a daily "Know Your Land" session. For this the campers supervised an educational feature on Extension in general with emphasis on 4-H.

Janet Grissom was chairman for the concluding highlight which was the candlelight recognition of the boy and girl who had been elected as the Spirits of Camp. In preparation for this each ranch group nominated a boy and a girl, whom they considered good campers from all angles of judgment.

Of the 12 candidates, the following were from Pickaway County: Sue Ruhl, Jerry Francis, Jeri Skinner, Dorothy Dewey, Robert Wincent, Linda Steck, and Terry Morris. The winning candidates were from Ross County.

The local councillors who had previously attended a 4-H Camp Association training session and who cooperated in leading the total camp program were: Sally Montgomery, Linda Wilson, Janet Grissom, Nancy Wilson, Linda Miller, Sidney Graves, Edith Deffenbaugh, Patricia Hockman, Mary Jo Bowlers, Sylvia Smith, Janet Wolfe, Carolyn Newton, Roger Schneider, Richard Greene, Larry McFadden, William Harrel and Nathan Wilson.

The Senior Camp, to be directed by George Hamrick, Pickaway County Associate Agent, is scheduled for July 26-30.

A TWO-PIECE OUTFIT is never out of place—be it worn on town dates or country weekends. Designed by Abe Schrader this white shantung sheath has a beautiful blue cornflower print and a brief matching blue linen bolero. The neckline, cut as a cool, shirred halter, completes the simple lines.

Correct Posture Aids Appearance, Prevents Fatigue

Correct posture is important to everyone, both from the standpoint of appearance and preventing fatigue, says Lois Deneke, extension home management specialist of Ohio University in Columbus.

Maintaining good posture while stooping, lifting, carrying, sitting, standing, and walking may help reduce fatigue. It also reduces nervous tension and irritability.

Posture is closely related to four factors, according to Miss Deneke. These are: using body correctly, having the proper work heights, using the right tools and eating foods that build healthy muscles.

When you stand, stand tall. The head, chest, neck, and abdomen should be balanced vertically so that weak muscles do not have to bear the body weight. When the body is in a sitting position, the backbone should be straight.

It is wise to do as many jobs as possible from sitting position in order to save more energy for other tasks. In bending the thing to remember is to bend at the knees, Miss Deneke says.

The back should be in an upright position when lifting heavy loads to keep from twisting back muscles. When carrying a heavy weight it is wise to balance it equally in both arms, if possible.

The homemaker should be able to stand erect at work surfaces and not have to stretch or slump in order to get her hands in a comfortable position. Keeping things within easy reach helps eliminate a lot of bending or stretching, the specialist says.

Youngsters Responsible For Many Items Purchased

Youngsters may never buy a thing, but they are responsible for a large percentage of the things that are bought in stores throughout the country.

Among them are the following things, all new for the kids:

First, there is a novel intercom system that is a radio, too. The master control can, for example, be placed in the kitchen where Mom spends a great part of her day. The auxiliary is set in the nursery, so she can keep in touch with her tot.

Sounds from the nursery are transmitted through the control set in the kitchen. If Mom wants to deliver a message, such as "Quiet now! Go to sleep!" all she has to do is press a button and it is done.

Another asset of the gadget is the radio connection, which means you can tune a station on the master unit and it plays both there and on the auxiliary, giving you music throughout the house.

There are also a number of simple, less complicated, less expensive items.

Older youngsters will like a very simple present and one that costs only a few cents. It is only a box of bandages, but they are decorated with play-time pictures of animals. As anyone with children

Refreshing Drinks Welcome During Summer Months

Refreshing, cool drinks are welcome when the sun is riding high. Here is one made with coffee.

Dissolve four tablespoons sugar in three cups freshly made hot coffee and chill. Combine with one cup orange juice. Pour into freezing tray of refrigerator and freeze to a stiff mush.

Beat two egg whites until stiff. Add gradually to frozen mixture and beat until light and fluffy but not melted.

Return quickly to refrigerator tray and freeze until firm.

Fill tall glasses two-thirds full with frozen mixture. Add additional hot coffee and top with whipped cream. Serve simple cookies or pound cake with it.

Here is another iced coffee recipe that is out of the ordinary.

For Spiced Coffee Foam to serve four, prepare four cups freshly made, regular-strength coffee. Add 12 whole cloves and two pieces of three inch stick cinnamon. Chill.

Beat one egg white until stiff. Add four tablespoons sugar gradually and continue beating until stiff and glossy.

Add 1/2 cup cream and chilled coffee. Pour into tall glasses, one-third full of ice.

Dieters who must count calories will not have to worry about their waistlines when this cooler is served.

To serve six, combine one pint grape juice, two cups pineapple juice and one quart ginger ale. Pour over ice cubes in tall glasses.

Grape Iced Tea is healthful, different and delicious.

To serve six, pour four cups boiling water over four tablespoons loose tea. Steep five minutes. Strain.

Add six tablespoons sugar, stirring until dissolved.

Add one quart grape juice and juice of two lemons. Pour immediately over ice cubes in tall glasses.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

are three men in our upper fifties, who have given more than 25 years' service to our employer. We are what is generally known as "white collar" employees, having no affiliation with a labor union. All other employees of our organization belong to a union.

We haven't been able to convince our employer that costs of the necessities of life have risen to a point where we, too, should be given a pay increase, along with union workers, to meet the rise in living costs.

Individually we have approached our employer on this subject, but the invariable reply is: "If you aren't satisfied, you know what you can do." He knows that it is almost impossible, at our age, to get another position paying the same wage; and we also know that.

The union workers get their periodic pay increases, in addition to pension, health and welfare insurance benefits that are paid for by the company. We realize how unfair our employer is; but even so, what can we do? We are trapped.

are supervisory personnel, or if you hold a confidential managerial position, would you be disqualified for union membership.

In the city through which you write, there is a local office of the National Labor Relations Board; and the management man says: "go there for advice on how to cope with your employer's attitude." Further, he says that any employer who would punish you for taking such a step "ought to have his head examined."

Humphrey's Role In Campaign Eyed As Law Violation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Vanik (D-Ohio) Monday called for a ruling by the U. S. attorney general on whether Treasury Secretary Humphrey's chairmanship of the Ohio Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee violates the Corrupt Practices Act.

Vanik said in a House speech: "This case requires the immediate determination by the attorney general of the United States who should endeavor to impartially look into this matter. If the Corrupt Practices Act does not apply to the participation of a high cabinet official in a senatorial campaign, then it should be corrected to so apply."

Humphrey has accepted the chairmanship of the campaign of Sen. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) against Democrat Frank J. Lausche, five-term Ohio governor.

Clevenger Silent

WASHINGTON (AP)—All but one of Ohio's 23 U.S. representatives voted for the civil rights bill, passed yesterday by the House, 279-126. Republican Rep. Cliff Clevenger did not vote.

Philly Negro To Aid Ohio GOP Program

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Republican Chairman Ray C. Bliss received a voice vote of confidence at a meeting here Monday of members of the State GOP Committee for his selection of Joseph H. Rainey of Philadelphia to work among Ohio's Negro voters.

The confidence vote followed defeat of a motion by W. O. Walker of Cleveland, only Negro member of the state committee, for a meeting of leading Ohio Negroes to develop a Republican program for voters of his race.

Bliss said Rainey, a Negro, was assigned to Ohio by the Minorities Division of the Republican National Committee. The Ohio chairman said he placed Rainey on his staff "because I felt he could do a job in Ohio."

Bliss said he hoped from 7 to 10 per cent of Ohio's 260,000 to 300,000 potential Negro voters will switch from the Democrats to the Republicans at the polls this fall.

In other actions Monday committee members picked Rep. J. Harry McGregor of West Lafayette, 17th District congressman, as permanent chairman of the Republican State Convention to be held in Columbus Sept. 12.

Mrs. Florence G. Morris of Toledo was named temporary chairman.

Hit-Run Victim Ignores Injury, Helps Nab Driver

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Ralph Sachs, despite several broken ribs, assisted in apprehending a motorist who had knocked him down at a midtown intersection and then failed to stop his car.

Police gave this account: The 53-year-old Sachs got up and ran after the vehicle, securing a hold of the door. The car still didn't stop and Sachs finally lost his grip and fell to the pavement.

Just then a police patrol car arrived. Sachs climbed in and within a few minutes the fleeing motorist, George Hunt, Jr., 35, was halted. He was charged with drunken driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Sachs was hospitalized for treatment of his rib fractures.

Cleric On Gambling Strip Sees Business Booming Too

By BOB THOMAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Twenty-three years ago, a young Irish priest just out of seminary in New York, told a friend he had chosen Nevada as the place to start his church career.

"Nevada," the friend exclaimed, "Why in Heaven's name would you go there? Why, there's nothing but a few houses next to the highway. Your church will look like a mission in China."

Nevertheless, Father John Ryan went West. After being stationed in most of the sizable towns in the state, he is now pastor of St. Anne's, the closest church to the great show capital, the Las Vegas strip.

On a recent Sunday, Father Ryan could look down at mass and see such famous faces as Jimmy Durante, Danny Thomas, Dennis Day and Teresa Brewer. Stars, chorus girls, pit men, crooners and plain citizens fill St. Anne's each Sunday. The congregations are so sizable that six masses are held.

"We have mass at 6, 8, 9:30, 11, 12:15 and also at five in the afternoon," said Father Ryan. "The reason is that people work such odd hours in this town."

a gala barbeque, auction and entertainment to pay off the $30,000 debt on the center.

I asked him if the presence of gambling in the community presented a moral problem in his parish.

"Gambling is not a sin per se," he replied, "though it is if done in excess. Anything is."

"Certainly gambling can be a moral problem, as when a man with a wife and three children loses all his earnings at the games. But this sort of thing happens less than you would expect."

"The afternoon mass is unusual, but it is permitted by dispensation in areas where it is necessary. We have found that it is helpful in a town like this, where many people work all night and rise in the afternoon."

Father Ryan came to Las Vegas four years ago to find St. Anne's out in the desert without even a road before it. Now there is a road, a thriving church, a grammar and high school.

His latest enthusiasm is a youth center to provide healthful recreation for children of all sects. Last weekend the town pitched in for

WASHINGTON (AP)—When Harold E. Stassen gambled his own political future by opposing renomination of Vice President Nixon, he linked other Republicans with him.

Stassen, special assistant on disarmament to President Eisenhower, denied he was acting as "front man" for anyone in trying to keep Nixon off the ticket.

But he said in an interview at his home Monday night a group of "Republican leaders" — whom he wouldn't identify — had collaborated with him in using professional pollsters to test public sentiment on the vice presidency.

Stassen said he was not speaking for these "leaders" and that they would speak out and identify themselves in due time. But he said he had consulted with them before making his statement.

Now the question becomes, Who are they? And how influential are they?

The polls, Stassen said, had been made repeatedly over the past month. Among whom? Republicans, laborites and others. What questions were asked? A number about possible running mates for Eisenhower.

He said the polls showed the reelection chances of Eisenhower would be 6 per cent better with Gov. Christian A. Herter as his vice presidential running mate than with Nixon on the ticket.

There can be no doubt the statement did the Republican party no good if its convention in August picks Nixon again. Stassen, in calling for Nixon to step aside, angered many professional Republican politicians.

It may cost Stassen his job. If that happens, his political future looks dark indeed—although he said at his home he didn't think he'd be fired or pressured out. He said he has no intention of resigning.

What he did, Stassen said, was fulfill my duty and responsibility as I see it to the President and to our country and to our Republican party. He told Eisenhower Friday what he was going to do Monday.

If the Nixon forces think Stassen was doing a hatchet job on him, it at least would not be the first time Stassen has actively tried to shove another man out of the running for high office.

In the 1952 primaries Stassen campaigned hard, particularly against Sen. Robert A. Taft, Ohio Republican, Taft, not Stassen, was Eisenhower's main opponent.

Before convention time Stassen said he had gone into the race to stop Taft. He said he wanted to stop that "viewpoint of semi-isolation and extreme conservatism in the Republican party from getting to the top."

At the convention he threw his support to Eisenhower and, after the election, was given a high government job as director of the mutual security program. Later Eisenhower made him his assistant on disarmament.

Although Stassen Monday night called Nixon a "burden" on the Republican ticket, he would not say precisely why he was so opposed to Nixon. He referred to his statement earlier in the day but that was full of generalities.

It is possible Stassen still retains some presidential ambitions—if he manages to survive this turmoil he caused among Republican politicians.

Lowering Of Lake Level Is Feared

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to authorize diversion of more water from Lake Michigan into the Illinois waterway was criticized yesterday by Sen. Ives (R-NY) as possibly adversely affecting Niagara Falls and St. Lawrence River power projects. He hinted President Eisenhower might veto the bill again, as he did in 1954.

Ives quoted Army engineers as saying that every inch of reduction in the water levels of the Great Lakes could force each vessel plying the lakes to reduce loads by approximately 100 tons.

Fluoride Tests Labeled Success

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Public Health Service reports that a 10-year study of Grand Rapids, Mich., has shown a "striking reduction" in tooth decay among children as a result of fluoridation of drinking water.

A special study of Grand Rapids was undertaken in 1944-45, to run 10 to 15 years. It is being conducted by the Health Service, the Michigan Department of Health and the city.

He's No Escapee, Just Pig-Chaser

WARREN, Maine (AP)—State Police issued an alarm that Armand Vigue, 23, had escaped from the state prison farm.

The alarm was recalled when Vigue returned to the farm with a pig in his arms.

Vigue explained he had run into the woods to catch the porker, a 2-hour job. The pig, he said, had broken out of the pen at the farm.

Eisenhower was still recovering from his operation and before it was announced he would run again—Stassen said that if Eisenhower didn't run he thought the Republicans could win with their Chief Justice Earl Warren or himself as head of the ticket.

Asked Monday night if he still felt that way — if anything now happened which caused Eisenhower to withdraw—Stassen said he would not discuss this possibility since the party was operating now on the assumption Eisenhower would run.

He was asked flatly if he would say he would not run. But he did not give a direct answer.

The Marxist demands more than the abolition of private property. He believes that it is historically inevitable that the next stage of advanced human society is the Marxist stage, which in our terms means the abolition of our traditions, our religion, our particular type of family system, as well as private property.

It is, of course, possible to make a temporary deal with any country, but we must not be surprised if the other country interprets the deal in terms of its own morals. Lenin, writing on the fundamental law of revolution, said:

"... It is not sufficient for revolution that the exploited and oppressed masses understand the impossibility of living in the old way and demand changes; for the revolution it is necessary that the exploiters should not be able to live and rule in the old way. Only when the 'lower classes' do not want the old and when the 'upper classes' cannot continue in the old way then only can the revolution be victorious."

This means that a revolution can only follow a national crisis and it is the function of the Kremlin to bring on a national crisis in every country. Its propaganda is nearly everywhere most successful among those who are regarded as "the upper classes."

Moscow has been the capital of Russia since 1918, following the revolution of 1917. Before that, Petrograd (now Leningrad) was the capital.

Lima Death Trial Due In September

LIMA (AP)—The first degree murder trial of William Francis Swearingen, 27, of Marion, scheduled for yesterday in the Allen County common pleas court, has been postponed until September.

Swearingen is accused of taking part in the holdup of a Lima tavern in which John R. Mooney, 29, of Lima, was slain by one of three holdup men.

Kenneth J. Orth, 25, of Marion, tried on the same charge in connection with Mooney's death, was acquitted July 18.

Nixon's Father Leaves Hospital

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP)—Vice President Nixon's father, Frank Nixon, has gone to his home in Whittier from Cottage Hospital in Fullerton, where he was confined a week ago by stomach hemorrhages.

Because of his arthritic condition, the 77-year-old Nixon probably will be confined to his bed and chair, hospital officials said. They said the ulcer condition had responded well to treatment.

The banker can easily protect the money in its strong vaults by means of time-locks, burglar alarms, insurance, etc.

But the real job is protecting the bank's money, while it is out of the bank — in loans and investments. This job calls for all the banking knowledge and experience which he possesses.

Good management means that the banker must use careful judgment in finding a safe job for each one of these dollars. His ability to do this assures safety for the bank's depositors.

1955 Ohio Work Stoppages Show Jump Over '54 Totals

COLUMBUS (AP)—Work stoppages in Ohio during 1955 caused 2,570,000 man-days of idleness, or 40 per cent more than the previous year of 1954, according to Margaret Mahoney, director of the Industrial Relations Department.

Her report defined a work stoppage as a strike or lockout.

Some 434 stoppages beginning in 1955 amounted to 63 per cent more than the previous year, the report said. Of the six leading industrial states, Ohio ranked second in man-days of idleness. Pennsylvania was highest with 3,350,000 man-days.

Playing a leading role in the high idleness of these two states were stoppages in the basic steel industry and Westinghouse Electric Co.

In Ohio, 85,400 steel workers were idle one day of July, while 15,100 workers were out at Westinghouse plants from mid-October through the end of the year. Some 11,800 were idle in another Westinghouse stoppage during four days of September.

Two other nationwide stoppages idled more than 10,000 Ohio workers—26,600 idled intermittently at General Motors Corp. plants during a 12-day period in June, and 12,000 at Ford Motor Co. plants one day in June.

Ohio's total idleness amounted to seven and one-half hours for each worker in non-agricultural, non-governmental employment. This was over two hours more than in 1954.

Cleveland had the most idleness of the eight biggest metropolitan areas of the state, with 549,000 man-days lost. But Columbus had the most idleness relative to the number of workers in the area. Columbus lost 62 per cent of its workers' man-days of worktime.

The man-days of idleness after Cleveland were: Columbus 304,143,000; Canton, 117,000; Youngstown, 92,000; Dayton, 39,600, and Toledo 32.

The report said wage increase was the sole issue in a third of the stoppages resulting in a fourth of the idleness. Shop conditions and policies were the issue in 12 per cent of the stoppages and job security in 1 per cent. Stoppages over wages, hours or fringe benefits—or a combination of those—made up 56 per cent of all the 1955 stoppages. The idleness was 29 per cent below the average of the post-World War II years.

HERE'S HOW . . .

MAKE A HUTCH TABLE-BENCH

An old-fashioned hutch is a useful and unique piece of furniture. The entire hutch may be made of 1-inch finished lumber. Edge-glue boards to make the large panels. The table top may be of hardwood plywood. Cut out the parts as shown.

Notch the end pieces to the actual width of the side pieces. Do not cut the seat base, the lid or the hinge board behind it until after partial assembly of the other bench parts. These pieces may then be fitted more exactly.

Use glue at all joints and No. 5 wood screws, 1 1/4 inches long, or 6-penny finishing nails. Counter bore for the screws, and fill the holes with glued dowel plugs.

Assemble by fastening one side board to the ends, add the bottom of the hutch, and then the other side piece. Attach the lid jambs to the under sides of the seat borders, allowing a 1/2-inch extension to support the lid before setting the borders in place.

Then add the hinge board. Attach the lid to the hinge board with butt hinges. Center the top braces beneath the table top.

Sand the hutch, rounding all sharp edges. Stain and varnish, or paint, as desired.

Braves, Bums Shun Cincy's Ugly Ducklings

Milwaukee, Brooklyn Mark Off Redlegs As Serious Flag Threat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cincinnati Redlegs, the National League's "ugly ducklings," stubbornly continue to hover in sight of the pot o' gold despite snubs by Milwaukee and Brooklyn. Although the Redlegs trailed front-running Milwaukee by only 2½ games after Monday night's 4-3 triumph over Pittsburgh, Braves' officials still regard the third-place Brooklyn Dodgers as the team to beat for the pennant.

The Dodgers, in turn, have eyes only for the Braves, who lead them by six games.

As the Dodgers prepared to meet Cincinnati tonight at Ebbets Field, Dodger General Manager E. J. (Buzze) Bavasi was quoted as saying the only team he feared was Milwaukee.

"Cincinnati has a good club but Milwaukee has more balance and finer pitching," he said. Birdie Tebbets has handled what he's got very well. We just don't have the pitching to stop them as the other clubs do."

Johnny Klippstein (8-6), who has beaten the Dodgers three times this season, was scheduled to pitch for the Redlegs against the veteran Sal Maglie (2-3).

Only two games were scheduled Monday, both at night, one in each league. In the American League's only encounter, the last-place Kansas City Athletics upset the White Sox in Chicago 3-2.

Cincinnati's victory Monday night came when Johnny Temple singled home Bob Thurman in the eighth inning with the deciding run. The triumph went to Brooks Lawrence in relief, Lawrence, who won his first 13 decisions, now owns a 14-1 record.

Elroy Face was charged with the defeat, his sixth. Thurman, who scored Cincinnati's winning run, kept the Reds in the game with a sixth-inning home run.

Kansas City scored all its runs inside the first three innings, then held off the White Sox on strong relief pitching by Tom Gorman and Bobby Shantz. Hec Lopez drove in the A's first two runs in the second, and Vic Power singled in what proved to be the winning run in the third.

Gorman replaced starter Jack McMahon with the bases full in the second and forced Nellie Fox to hit into an inning-ending double play. He limited the Sox to three hits until the ninth when he walked Jim Delsing, who scored Chicago's second run on pinch hitter Ron Northey's double. Shantz then came in to retire the next three batters.

Jim Wilson suffered his eighth loss against 11 victories. Gorman got the victory to even his season's record at 6-6.

Softball Tourney Ends First Round

BOWLING GREEN — Three games last night wound up the first round of the Ohio International Softball League state tournament, and two of them went into extra innings.

Bowling Green VFW was extended to 11 innings before edging Routh Packers of Tiffin, 2-1. The Toledo Playboys had to go nine innings to beat Fremont, 4-3.

In the third game of the double-elimination tournament, Harley's Gulf of Napoleon trounced Mesa 7-1, also of Napoleon, 12-1.

Napoleon Ford meets Gerald Merchants tonight and Bowling Green plays the Playboys.

Dupont Team Wins Tie Game Playoff

In continuation of a tie game halted last week by darkness, DuPont came out on top by a score of 9 to 5 over Chamber of Commerce Monday night at Ted Lewis Park.

Play resumed in the top of the sixth inning, with the score tied at 2 to 2. The DuPont crew went on to score five runs, while the Chamber boys could manage only three runs in the two innings played.

Shirley Fry Adds Another Crown

CHICAGO — Wimbledon champion Shirley Fry "just had to" win her first National Clay Courts Tennis championship yesterday in order to save face at a hometown banquet later this week.

Miss Fry, trailing badly in the first set, rallied to defeat Althea Gibson of New York City, 7-5, 6-1, and Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., also came from behind to win his second men's title with a long, drawn out 3-6, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3, triumph over Ed Moylan of Trenton, N. J.

Burke, Kroll Vie For Top Honors In PGA Tournament

CANTON, Mass. — According to golfers who play in it — and some who won't — the Professional Golfers Assn. Championship is the toughest of all major tournaments because of its length and the unceasing pressure.

Two players well fitted physically and temperamentally to withstand this grind — Jackie Burke and Ted Kroll — meet today to battle it out over 36 holes of a woody, country-type golf course for the title and the $5,000 top prize.

Burke, 33, apparently is just reaching the peak of his competitive game after a too-long apprenticeship in which he was regarded as a perennial great prospect. Kroll, 37, is a wiry, weather-beaten tournament campaigner who plays every week on the pro tour and never seems to turn a hair whether the going is good or bad.

Since play began in the PGA last Friday, Burke already has played 121 holes of golf, almost without a breathing spell. Kroll didn't have a letup either until Monday's semifinals, when the upset king of the earlier rounds turned out to be just a "pigeon" for a real tough competitor.

Joe Louis' Heart Reported Damaged

CHICAGO — A physician for the Illinois Athletic Commission says Joe Louis, former world heavyweight boxing champion, has a damaged heart but that he is unable to say now whether the disability is permanent.

Dr. Irving Slot in a report to the commission said an examination of Louis, 42, showed an "abnormal electrocardiograph" and that the former champ should restrict his activities for the present. The commission on Dr. Slot's recommendation declined to approve Louis' application to wrestle in Illinois.

Flat-Country Motorists Can Meet Real Trouble In Mountains

Safety Council Issues Special List Of Memos

Precautions Cover Story In Terms Of Trained Drivers

Most of Pickaway County's motorists are accustomed to flat country, gentle curves and long-sight distances. And as a result, unless they drive with special care, they can find themselves meeting dangerous situations on a steep mountain curve.

Because mountain driving requires extra knowledge and skills, the National Safety Council offers the following advice if you plan to drive in the mountains:

1. One of the most frequent causes of mountain mishaps is too much downgrade. The average flat-country driver has learned to sense dangerous speed by vibration and wind noise and to expect easy curves. In the mountains, speed may be too fast long before the speedometer or the usual danger signals give warning. Curves are tortuous compared to ordinary roads. The inexperienced driver, finding himself entering a curve too fast, may brake too heavily and throw himself into a skid, he may oversteer in a panicky reaction to the pull of centrifugal force, or he may veer across the center line into the path of oncoming cars.
2. Runaway speed can result from wearing out the brakes. Using engine compression to hold the car by descending in a lower gear is the only safe practice. Brakes, when used, should be applied intermittently. Constant application builds up terrific heat which not only wears brake bands, but may expand the drums and even cause the hydraulic fluid to boil. The vapor bubbles then compress when the brakes are applied, with loss of positive action. If brakes get mushy, stop and let them cool.

3. Never let your desire to save gas lead you to coast downhill out of gear. Forget about economy. Coasting is so dangerous it is against the law in many states.
4. For the same reason, don't descend in overdrive. Incidentally, it strains an engine to climb in second gear. But change to "Low" before you start down.
5. Many new cars have automatic transmissions which provide less engine compression in the normal driving range than conventional gears. On steep downgrades, the control should be set in the "Low" position. Once you are rolling, this will give engine compression about equivalent to the regular second gear. But change to "Low" before you start down.
6. On the subject of automatic transmissions, don't forget they may creep when the car is stopped unless the control knob is set for "Parking." So in mountain parking lots or roadside turnouts, don't leave the car to take that snapshot unless the transmission control is on parking and the parking brake is set.

7. Driving on the wrong side of the road is one of the most common causes of mountain accidents. This can result from too much speed on curves or from passing on upgrades. Sometimes it is from a psychological fear of the drop—nervous and inexperienced drivers stay so far away from the edge of the precipice that they take their half in the middle.
8. Passing other vehicles on mountain roads is a ticklish proposition and requires more self-control than the flat-country driver commonly exercises. The only rule is — never take a chance! On winding mountain roads you never get to see very far ahead. Downhill, it often is possible to pass safely, but there is danger in building up too much speed in your desperation to get around. Uphill, the danger is miscalculation of the accelerating and overtaking rate, which naturally is much slower than on level highways. If a driver behind you starts to pass, slow down and let him around as quickly as possible. Don't risk a pileup that may involve you.

9. Don't drink. That's a good idea anytime you are going to drive, but it's even more important in the mountains. The intoxicating effect of alcohol increases with altitude. And speaking of alcohol, it is no good for your car, either. In the thinner air of high altitudes, alcohol boils easily. Use a non-alcoholic anti-freeze if the season makes such protection advisable.
10. Stopping on the highway to look at scenery or to take pictures is dangerous. Always pull completely off the road, or use one of the observation parking areas frequently provided.
11. In the thinner mountain air, uphill driving on a warm day may heat the motor enough to cause vaporlock or radiator boil. Vapor lock is due to high engine heat causing gasoline in fuel lines and fuel pump to vaporize, so that the pump sucks on the bubbly liquid with little effect. There is nothing to do but wait until it cools, possibly hurrying things along by wrapping a cloth soaked in cold water around the fuel pump. The radiator of modern cars shouldn't boil if you are not using alcohol, if the water level is checked every morning, if the radiator cells are not clogged with bugs and dirt, and if the fan belt is properly adjusted to move the maximum amount of air. Overheating results chiefly from climbing in too high a gear. Don't take it as an affront to your car's performance if it strains in high gear. Shift—for pride goeth before a boiling radiator. If it does boil, use extreme caution in removing the cap. Shield your hand with a rag and turn it a quarter turn, which allows steam to escape without spraying boiling water.
12. In a mountain rainstorm, vacuum wipers may slow down or virtually quit on an upgrade, especially on older cars. There is nothing to do but let up on the accelerator frequently to permit a couple of swipes. Electric wipers or vacuum wipers with boosters do not present this difficulty.

13. Sudden weather changes can be extremely dangerous in the mountains—especially in the late fall when unexpected snowfall is a possibility. Fogs are common, too, and require the utmost caution.

14. The usual forehandedness in preparing for a trip is especially necessary for mountain driving. The prudent driver might carry a spare fan belt, a collapsible bucket to dip water from streams, a lighting circuit fuse if his car uses them, an adequate first aid kit, a flashlight, and a package of red flares—fuses—which can be obtained in any auto supply store. The brakes should be adjusted and balanced and the pedal should have adequate reserve. The cooling system should be checked and cleaned, and the spare tire made ready for use.
15. Plan every day's trip to reach a stopping point well before dark. Then the need to hurry won't tempt you to drive too fast, you will avoid the hazards of night driving, your trip will be more enjoyable, and you'll get a better choice of hotel or motor court accommodations.

Ohio Underground Parking Chieftains Given Blueprints

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Underground Parking Commission has received plans for a 2 level garage extending to 27 feet below street level, on the Ohio Capital grounds here.

The plans, placed before the commission Monday, were accompanied by a traffic and revenue report suggesting a garage with spaces for 1,000 to 1,100 cars.

The H. K. Ferguson Co. of Cleveland, which prepared the preliminary plans and estimates proposed parking charges ranging from 35 cents for one hour to $1.75 for 18-24 hours.

The firm estimated the annual gross from the garage would be $511,497.

Wilber Smith and Associates of

New Haven, Conn., must submit a final traffic and revenue report before the commission can determine whether or not the proposed garage is feasible.
